COUNCILLOR LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN TO HELP FOOD BANKS AND HOMELESS

Councillor Stuart Henley with donations

A CAMPAIGN for donations of food and clothes to give to homeless people ahead of Christmas and the cold winter months has been launched.

Halesowen North's councillor Stuart Henley is appealing for donations from the public.

He said: "There seems to be more homeless people on the streets. I have seen a couple of homeless people in Halesowen town centre."

He is appealing for food and drinks to give to homeless people and tinned food to hand out to food banks.

"I am appealing for noodles, hot drinks with sachets and warm clothes," he said.

Councillor Henley carries out this initiative throughout the year but feels it is particularly important ahead of Christmas.

He added: "I have tried to rehouse people, but some people are stuck in their ways and prefer to stay homeless."

"We need to do what we can to help people out."

Arrange

Councillor Henley is asking people to contact him to arrange for the donations to be collected and dropped off where they can do most good.

"With people having clear outs and Christmas coming, I am hoping to collect items," said Councillor Henley.

"I am quite happy to pick up donated items but I would ask people to get in touch and phone me up."

He added that the campaign was growing in importance. Statistics from the Government show that in Autumn 2016, there were 4,134 people estimated to be sleeping rough on any night in the UK.

Rough sleeping increased by 15 per cent from 2015 to 2016, and has gone up by 134 per cent since 2010.

"This campaign is about helping people who are less fortunate," he said.

End of the road is feared for Heathens

CRADLEY Heathens face Eastbourne next Monday in what could be their last ever league meeting.

Bosses have confirmed they cannot guarantee the team will be at the tapes for 2018.

Co-promoter Gary Patchett said: "We want to end the season on a high. While we sincerely hope it's not the case, who knows, it could be the last league meeting for Cradley."

The Heathens' season will round off at Monmore, Wolverhampton, on October 23 (7.30pm) with the famous F.A.S.T Golden Hammer individual.

CLUBS' ANGER AT FLARE SHAME

POLICE and club bosses are hunting football 'fans' who set off a flare injuring a woman aged in her 60s during the local derby between Halesowen Town and Stourbridge.

'Appropriate action' is to be taken against the culprits after two flares were thrown onto the pitch at Amblecote at the weekend.

Police are investigating the attack which left the victim with burns after being hit in the throat while Halesowen Town has launched its own probe.

The flares were thrown onto the pitch during the popular No 9 Derby, named after the bus route which links the two towns, that saw Halesowen win 2-1.

Yeltz vice-chairman Dave Hawley revealed the club will replace the Halesowen fan's damaged football shirt.

A total of 2,306 supporters flocked to the War Memorial Ground in Amblecote for the match.

Mr Hawley said: "The lady in question was treated at the game and had suffered burns to her neck, as well as her injuries she is suffering from shock, and being cared for by her family.

Blame

"In the incident her Halesowen shirt was damaged and we, of course, are replacing that for her."

"For the record we do not blame anyone from Stourbridge football club, unfortunately in football a few are more interested in causing the disruption of the game for the majority."

"We will work with Stourbridge football club and West Midlands Police in any investigation they undertake to identify who threw both of the flares. The safety of our supporters both home and away is of paramount importance."

Stourbridge's directors said: "The club

Report by Jamie Brassington

will ban those responsible and is awaiting reports from the FA and police."

West Midlands Police is asking anyone with information to call them on 101.

Two goals from striker Daniel Udoh won Halesowen the game, while Ryan Rowe scored for the Glassboys.

The first flare, a blue one, was thrown after Udoh's first goal around seven minutes. The second flare, a red one, was thrown after Stourbridge equalised after 63 minutes. An announcement was made on the speaker after each incident warning the culprits would be removed from the ground.

Halesowen said they would work with West Midlands Police, Stourbridge and the ground's K2 Security as part of the investigation. The club's statement said: "I Halesowen Town FC supporters are identified as being responsible then appropriate steps will be taken. The vast majority of our fans support the club in the right way – let's keep it like that!"

GOVERNMENT

Free housing for rough sleepers

HOMELESS drug addicts in the West Midlands could be given free houses under a new Government-backed scheme.

West Midlands Mayor Andy Street has announced a bid for the region to lead a radical new trial to combat rough sleeping. Known as Housing First, it would see a major investment in properties so homeless people can be given a place to live.

Only black superintendent has retired

Supt Keith Fraser

ONE of the most senior black police officers in the West Midlands has retired after more than 30 years.

Keith Fraser – the only black superintendent with West Midlands Police – has urged more members of the black community to 'make a difference' and consider policing, as he brings to an end a career which has seen him go from beat patrols in Barking, via New Scotland Yard to the West Midland, with roles in child protection, crime investigation, neighbourhood policing and firearms.

He has been an officer since 1985. Supt Fraser said: "One of the proudest moments in my life was putting on my uniform for the first time: the look of pride on my family's faces will never leave me. I've lost track of the amount of times people have come up to me in the street to shake my hand or say 'it's good to see a black police officer here.'

"People who are not white shouldn't be such a rarity in policing. The service really does need and value difference.

"Anyone who cares about their communities should look at joining the police, there is no point standing on the outside looking in when you could make a real difference."

Since joining West Midlands Police in 2005, Keith has worked in Birmingham, Stourbridge, Walsall and Wolverhampton.

He offered words of advice for any potential officers saying: "Being yourself is really important because it's what you bring is an individual to policing that matters and is most effective. The public relate to you better and the police service definitely benefits."

Mystery over death of woman at care home

AN INQUEST on a pensioner said to have been found dead on the floor next to her bed at a care home has been ruled inconclusive by a coroner because of 'conflicting evidence'.

Margaret Janney, a 93-year-old retired school secretary, was found by staff at Roxburgh Care Home on February 10.

However they failed to call 999, which they should have done after finding Ms Janney, instead phoning the non-emergency 111, the Black Country Coroner's Court in Oldbury was told.

The inquest heard Dr Suhail Muzaffar, who performed Ms Janney's autopsy, said she suffered a heart attack.

He also revealed she had nine rib fractures that were fairly fresh and could have been caused from the result of her falling from the bed at the home.

Wall

Manager at the care home in Reddall Hill Road, Cradley Heath, Julie Jones, revealed Ms Janney was found on her left side on the floor next to the bed, but she said this should not have happened as it should have been pushed up flush against the wall.

Mr Zafar Siddique, the coroner, said at Tuesday's conclusion to the hearing: "I simply can not say what happened, whether it was a naturally occurring issue or if she fell out her bed first and had a heart attack, or if she had a heart attack and then fell out of her bed."

"Overall there is a great deal of conflicting evidence. I am returning an open conclusion."

Mayor's praise for bloom team

VOLUNTEERS behind the Halesowen in Bloom campaign were praised by the Mayor of Dudley for their hard work after winning gold for the third year running at the regional Britain in Bloom awards.

They were invited to the Mayor's Parlour at Dudley Council House where they were presented with the coveted award by the Mayor Councillor Dave Tyler.

Eve O'Connor, chairman of Halesowen in Bloom, who is pictured receiving the award on Monday, said: "It was very nice to hear kind words from councillors on the evening and some recognition for our hard work."

Halesowen will go on to compete for the national crown, which will be decided by judges next year.

Councillor Karen Shakespeare, cabinet member for environmental services, said: "This is very much testament to the very strong sense of community spirit in Halesowen."

"The Heart of England in Bloom judges lavished praise, and rightly so, on the teams of volunteers, residents and shopkeepers who have worked so hard in both areas to get them looking beautiful."

The Halesowen in Bloom team were also named 'Urban Community' category winners – meaning the town has also secured a place in the national competition.

The work and leadership of group chairman Eve O'Connor, who has led the town to three golds and a silver gilt in four years, was praised by the judges.

Arrests are made in response to crimewave

ARRESTS have been made targeting drug-dealers and burglars in Halesowen following a crimewave in the town, it has been revealed.

Warnings were issued earlier this month about a spike in crime and police have launched a crackdown on culprits.

Police have revealed arrests have been carried out after reports of drug dealing and burglaries.

Halesowen police sergeant Debra Rowbotham told the latest Halesowen Community Forum that 'some successful arrests' have been made.

Residents were invited to the meeting to air their views as a result of the rising crime.

Complaining

Halesowen North councillor Karen Shakespeare said: "Residents are complaining about drug dealing and burglaries and the police said they had made some successful arrests and they are keeping a focus on the area at the meeting."

Fellow councillor Hilary Bills also revealed earlier this month that there was a spate of cars being stolen off driveways.

Anyone with information for police is urged to call them on 101.

Extra show for wizard Wagner

AN extra performance of a panto has been announced following what organisers described 'incredible demand' for the show.

There will be a matinee showing of The Wizard of Oz when it is staged in aid of Mary Stevens Hospice at Brierley Hill Civic Hall in January.

The Stourbridge hospice has organised the family show, which features Wagner from TV's The X Factor, and Marlene the Black Country Wench.

The show was originally due to run only on January 23 and 24 evenings but a matinee has been added on January 24 due to public demand.

Tickets for the matinee, £10, are available at bhllcivic.co.uk website or by calling (01384) 573381.

Single decker hits station bus shelter

DUDLEY Bus Station was cordoned off after a bus struck a shelter on Monday but luckily no one was injured in the incident. Travellers were evacuated from Dudley Bus Station at Fisher Street following the accident involving a National Express.

Lorry collision cycle victim was trainee GP in city

A WOMAN cyclist who died after her bike was involved in a collision with a lorry at a busy junction in central Birmingham had been working as a doctor at the city's children's hospital.

The incident happened at the junction of Edgbaston Road and Pershore Road in Birmingham at around 4pm on Tuesday.

Emergency services were called but 32-year-old Suzanna Bull was pronounced dead at the scene.

The lorry driver stopped at the scene and is assisting police with investigations.

West Midlands Police are appealing for witnesses to the incident.

Sergeant Alan Wood, from the force's Collision Investigation Unit, said: "This investigation is in its early stages and we are trying to establish exactly what happened."

"We are appealing to anyone who witnessed the collision who hasn't yet spoken to us to get in touch."

"Our thoughts are with the family of the woman who lost her life. We have specialist officers supporting them at this difficult time."

Ms Bull, who was from Nottinghamshire, had completed her Medical degree at the University of Birmingham and had recently been working at Birmingham Children's Hospital as part of her GP training.

Anyone with information is urged to call police on 101.

Comedy talent at Brierley Hill venue

TOP TV comics Seann Walsh and Patrick Monahan top a bill of five comedians at Brierley Hill Civic Hall next Saturday, October 21.

Dudley's own Wayne Beese will compere the night which also features Vince Atta and Jake Lambert.

Long-haired Walsh is best known for his appearances on Mock The Week, 8 Out Of 10 Cats and Live At The Apollo, while Monahan won ITV's Show Me The Funny.

Atta has been described as a hip-hop comedian with his comic songs and Lambert is a rising star.

Doors and bar opens at 7pm with the show starting at 8pm. It's an over 18s only event. Tickets cost £18.50, available at bhllcivic.co.uk or by calling (01384) 573381.

Driver guilty for Nadine's tragic death

Nadine Foster – died in hospital

A SPEEDING learner driver from Stourbridge, who was over the drink limit, has been convicted of killing a young mother.

Joseph Chance looked on emotionless as jurors unanimously convicted him of causing the death of Nadine Foster by dangerous driving in April 2016.

The 25-year-old was found guilty on Tuesday following a trial at Wolverhampton Crown Court.

Chance and friend Dylan Stringer were driving along Oldswinford's Hagley Road in two vehicles when the fatal crash occurred.

Former Dudley College student Nadine Foster, who was a front seat passenger in Stringer's Ford Focus, was left with serious injuries when the car ploughed into a wall.

Hospital

The 18-year-old mother, who had also studied at Pedmore Technology College, died in hospital 10 days later.

During the trial, jurors were told the three had been drinking in Stourbridge's Chicago Rock Cafe before leaving the venue in the early hours of April 16.

The two drivers began speeding in Hagley Road, Oldswinford. Chance, who was driving a Renault Clio – despite telling the court he only had a provisional licence – sped across the road with Stringer behind.

The jury heard the two cars reached speeds of almost 80mph.

Chance, of Murcroft Road, and Stringer, of Wychbury Road, Stourbridge, who pleaded guilty to causing death by dangerous driving at an earlier hearing, are due to be sentenced on November 7.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Roadworks to end this week

ROADWORKS which have been causing disruption for motorists in Halesowen are set to come to an end this week.

Maintenance work has been taking place along Long Lane for resurfacing of the highway.

The work started two weeks ago and Halesowen North ward councillor Karen Shakespeare revealed that the work should be completed this week.

She said: "It will cause some disruption to residents but we have tried everything we can to keep disruption to a minimum.

"This work is long overdue," she added.

Moves to clear away alley rubbish

A CAMPAIGN is being launched to clean up alleyways across Halesowen, including one near a school.

Residents have raised concerns that fly tipping has resulted in rubbish being dumped in alleys within the town.

Halesowen North's Councillor Karen Shakespeare said: "I have arranged for those to be cleaned up."

"Complaints have been made about people dumping rubbish in gullies."

One of the worse affected alleys is located next to Holt Farm Primary School in Holt Road, Halesowen.

Call to demolish offices sooner rather than later

A PLANNING boss has called for rapid action to demolish an office block in Halesowen.

Work to bring down Premier House in Birmingham Street was due to begin this month but developers can start at any time over the next five years.

Councillor Andrea Goddard, who chairs Dudley Council's planning committee, wants to see the demolition take place as quick as possible as the move could pave the way for development. She says the site falls victim to anti-social-behaviour and delaying the demolition would impact on the community.

A planning application for the work was approved by Dudley Council in July.

It meant businesses based at the prime site near the town centre have been tasked with finding alternative premises.

Landlord Khosrow Omidvar said all the businesses had been aware that plans could go forward for demolition and that he would be supporting them in finding alternative locations.

Welcome

Councillor Goddard said: "The company behind the development said they wanted to see work commence in October and finish by mid-November.

"I welcome the development. There has been a lot of trouble in the area with anti-social-behaviour. Hopefully a new development on the site will stop that."

"The company said they want to see the work start in October and will be finished by November."

"Within the planning policy, you have got five years from the start. If you pass five years, an application will have to be passed by planning again to be approved."

She added: "I definitely want to see the demolition take place quickly rather than wait, otherwise we are clinging onto something we don't need."

A council report into the development said: "The applicant advises that demolition would commence in October, to enable redevelop-

College's new teachers start work

TWELVE new members of staff have started at Halesowen College in a variety of teaching areas including Maths, English, IT and Health and Social Care.

Rachael Bowater will be teaching Maths; Katie Bowkett, English; Lisa Brady, Health and Social Care; Vivien Gelder, Accounting; Samantha Lowe, Animal Care; Rebecca Paterson, English; Amandeep Purewal, IT; Sarah Stott, Business; Clare Taman, Business; Melanie Taylor, Health and Social Care; Terri-Ann Wheeler, English; Sophie Wilkinson, Catering, and Skeerat Jagpal, newly qualified lecturer in Business.

David Williams, Principal of Halesowen College, said: "I would like to extend a warm welcome to all our new staff."

"We are looking forward to working alongside these highly skilled individuals to support our students to achieve their very best."

SWIMMERS are being urged to take the plunge and sign up to learn life-saving skills on a training course.

Dudley Council is offering the course at Halesowen Leisure Centre and Crystal Leisure Centre, Stourbridge, run by the Royal Life Saving Society.

The courses are open for people 16 and over who will be expected to take a swimming test.

The course costs £245. See dudley.gov.uk/sport or call the leisure centres.

Teenager arrested after boy is stabbed

A 14-year-old boy has been arrested after a stabbing in Bromsgrove.

West Mercia Police was called to reports of a stabbing on Spirehouse Lane at around 11.30am on Monday.

A teenage boy suffered a stab wound to the abdomen and was taken to hospital. His injuries are not believed to be life-threatening.

Officers have arrested a boy from Birmingham, who has been released under investigation.

Motorist in chase had taken cocaine

A MOTORIST led police on a high speed chase for 18 minutes had taken cocaine and was not insured, a court was told.

Richard Everill, of previous good character, was ordered to stop by a police patrol which spotted his BMW being driving on Manor Road, Oldbury, at 2.15am on July 22, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard.

The 25-year-old, who had taken cocaine, consistently drove at around 20mph above the limit, occasionally on the wrong side of the road, and failed to give way at junctions and roundabouts on wet roads, explained Mr Edward Soulsby, prosecuting.

Police twice laid stingers in his path without halting his progress before a third finally brought him to a standstill.

Mr Richard Davenport, defending, said: "The only explanation he can give is he had taken cocaine. He is not an addict but has had problems that led him into financial difficulties. He was terrified because he had not renewed his car insurance."

Everill from Red Brick Close, Cradley Heath, admitted dangerous driving, having no insurance and failing to stop. He was given a 10-month jail sentence suspended for two years with a 12-month driving ban. He was also ordered to do 200 hours unpaid work and pay £690 in fines and costs.

Magistrates court is put on the market

THE former Sandwell Magistrates Court site on Oldbury Ringway has been put up for sale as a potential development site.

The court building closed in September last year as a result of Government cost-cutting. The one-acre site has been put on the market as a freehold building and land by commercial property agents GVA.

Drive In keeps on rolling forward

Chris Perrins, of Barclays, Kieran Morris and Natasha Bhardwaj of Hawkins Hatton and Trevor Kelleher, Drive In Autocentres

AN MOT testing firm in the Black Country has secured its future taking possession of one of its sites.

Drive In Autocentres has long been known for MOT testing and tyre servicing within the Black Country. For more than 25 years it has operated from its depots in Blackheath and Halesowen. Barclays Bank has now assisted Drive In by funding its acquisition of the premises in Blackheath.

Drive In used Hawkins Hatton Corporate Lawyers, based in Dudley, to assist it through the legal process and to negotiate all commercial aspects of the acquisition.

Trevor Kelleher, managing director of Drive In, said: "Having secured the Blackheath premises it means we will now have an even more secure base to continue expanding and providing a service second to none within the Black Country."

Chris Perrins, business manager at Barclays Bank, said: "It is always good to see a SME business continue to thrive and with the ever-expanding number of cars on the road, it is nice to know that we have customers who do their best to service the needs of the general public."

Colin Rodrigues, partner at Hawkins Hatton, added: "In these times of low interest rates, it makes commercial sense to borrow monies to secure commercial property."

A HOSPITAL is safe for mothers to have their babies, its boss has insisted following a damning report – as she apologised to women who received poor care.

Expectant mothers should be assured action had been taken at Dudley's Russets Hall Hospital to address serious concerns over maternity care, Dudley Group NHS Trust chief executive Diane Wake said.

She was speaking following the release of a report that outlined a series of failures within the maternity unit where 43 serious incidents were reported over a 20-month period, including the death of a baby and five incidents of avoidable harm.

An investigation was launched by NHS England due to the sheer scale of serious incidents reported between April 2014 and December 2015 – more than any other maternity unit in the West Midlands.

Failings flagged up included babies' heart rates being wrongly monitored, staff being slow to react to urgent situations and not recognising mothers' conditions deteriorating.

Risk

The hospital's own investigations into what was going wrong was 'inadequate', creating a risk of further harm to babies, the report by the Maternity Quality Improvement Board said.

Ms Wake, who joined the trust as chief executive after the period of concern, accepted it was a 'large number' of serious incidents. But she insisted the maternity unit was now a different place to what it was two years ago, following a rigorous staff training. Extra midwives had also been recruited.

So far this year there have been two serious incidents, which is seen as a major improvement on previous years. She said: "I now feel confident if there is anything wrong we have the right processes and systems to tell us early."

Deputy chief on move to new council

A COUNCIL'S deputy chief executive is leaving his post to take up the top job at another authority.

Dudley Council's deputy chief executive and strategic director for people Tony Oakman will leave at the end of January to become chief executive of Bolton Council.

Mr Oakman joined Dudley Council in March 2015 as strategic director for people. He said he would be sad to be leaving the authority, but delighted to be taking on his new role.

"I'm extremely proud of what we're achieving here in Dudley and I'm proud to be leaving the authority in a better place," he said.

Council leader Patrick Harley, who represents Kingswinford South, said: "Tony has made a big contribution to moving the council forward and delivering more efficient and effective services and we wish him all the best in his new role."

So many channels but little to watch

HERE has been a bit of a kerfuffle over Lavinia Woodward, the "too posh for prison" student who walked free from court after stabbing her boyfriend with a bread knife.

Judge Ian Pringle came to his decision after hearing Miss Woodward had a personality disorder, an eating disorder and a previous dependency on drugs and alcohol. Oh, and prison would damage her hopes of a high-flying career as a surgeon.

Is it just me, or is it that last sentence not just a little disturbing? I know there's a shortage of doctors and nurses, but to we really want somebody with so many issues wielding the scalpel? All I can say is I hope she uses plenty of anaesthetic.

WRITING in the esteemed British Medical Journal, Professor Alyson Pollock calls for a ban on tackling and scrummaging in school rugby games, saying it puts youngsters at risk of head injuries.

I suppose if I was being cynical, I might be tempted to ask what position Prof Pollock played while she was at school.

I sort of agree with her. From my memories of playing rugby at school, the game would be infinitely more enjoyable without all that shoulder-to-shoulder jostling, and pulling your opponents down with your hands.

But I don't think Prof Pollock goes far enough. To make rugby the sort of game I would have enjoyed, they need to ban handling the ball, and all that nonsense where they touch the ball on a line and then pick it up again. In fact, get rid of all those complicated rules that a 14-year-old has no chance of understanding. A round ball would make sense, too.

A CROWD of supporters chant Jeremy Corbyn's name, and he is hailed as the next prime minister. Theresa May has a cough, and it's time to resign. I guess that's the age of television for you.

TALKING of television, isn't it amazing that, at a time when we have more channels than ever before, that there really is so little worth watching?

There are only two programmes I would take the time to bother with these days: The Apprentice, and Can't Pay? We'll Take It Away, which the broadcasters are now screening at the same time.

In the past, this would not have been a problem, because I would have recorded one on the old VHS player, but this has proved near-impossible since the digital switchover. They call this progress.

Well at least you get what you want for anniversary gift

Mayor Sadiq Khan plans to create zones where all solid fuels are banned

Feisty Scottish Tory leader Ruth Davidson wants to take the fight to Jeremy Corbyn

Jeremy Corbyn – still plenty of scope for backbench problems to confront him

More saying I Do to self-marriages

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

THE latest development in matrimony is self-marriage. Described as "a symbolic and feminist act," it brings all the benefits of a traditional wedding (pretty frock, bridesmaids, big party, etc) without the complication of a partner. The bride simply pledges to love, cherish and respect herself. You may mock but self-marriages seem to last. The Times reports that one self-married lady in Vancouver got engaged to someone else but realised it was a mistake, broke it off and remains happily married to herself. Well, good luck to them all, even if their wedding anniversaries must be a tad predictable. "You bought me a what? It's just what I wanted. How did you know?"

BEFORE the blood had even dried, some survivors of this week's Las Vegas massacre were singing the praises of the US Constitution which declares: "A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed." And if the aim of guns-for-all is to create a militia, then simple logic says the people must be permitted not only shotguns and sporting rifles but military-grade weapons like the ones unleashed by Stephen Paddock.

THERE is really no point in us Brits engaging in the US gun lobby in America's guns debate. We think they are bonkers. They think we are wimps. After every massacre, the response of thousands of Americans is always the same. Buy more guns. About 30,000 Americans are killed by guns every year and yet still in millions of US hearts beats the notion that guns make you safer. Over the past 40 years the number of guns owned by US citizens has doubled to more than 300 million. It is believed there are now more guns in the United States than people.

NOTHING in life is simple. London's mayor Sadiq Khan plans to create zones where all solid fuels, including wood used in trendy log-burners, are banned. And who can argue with that? In a huge city like London, there are clean alternatives such as gas and electricity. But the capital is also famous for its pizza parlours. And how can you bake the perfect pizza without the traditional wood-fired oven? So what began as a common sense scheme to clean up the Great Wen has turned into an awkward little spat, with an ethnic dimension between Khan and the Pizza, Pasta and Italian Food Association. From a Guardian debate on wood burning I liked this reassuring contribution: "The pizza absorbs all the poisons, then you eat it. So yeah, it's fine."

IF the Conservatives are looking for new inspiration, or for a new leader, they must surely look North. Ruth Davidson, the feisty Scottish Tory leader, is a bundle of energy with a sharp sense of humour. She wants to take the fight to Jeremy Corbyn and I cannot name anyone more calculated to put the fear of God into the Corbynites. How would Labour claim to speak for diversity and inclusivity when their leader was male, pale and stale but the new Tory leader was a young Scottish lass in a same-sex relationship? Davidson ticks boxes, scares the socialists and is 30 years younger than Mr Corbyn.

CORBYN has proclaimed Labour is now the mainstream political party. But he should beware. There are plenty of orthodox non-left wing Labour MPs and activists who deplore the threats of the Momentum faction to get rid of those Members who do not toe the party line. So there remains plenty of scope for backbench problems to confront Corbyn.

LET me say at the outset that there is nothing remotely funny about ramblers being chased and bitten by free-ranging pigs in the New Forest a few days ago. The pigs were said to be "out for trouble, like a gang of teenagers." But the quote that made me smile came from the bitten walker who explained the background: "I had been warned there had been some friction between the pigs and the ponies." Anyone else thinking of Animal Farm?

PLAIN English department. Uniper, the company demolishing an old power station in Shropshire, says it will keep the local council and residents fully informed. One councillor responded: "It is extremely encouraging to hear of Uniper's commitment to undertake proactive stakeholder communications." Seriously, does anyone actually talk like this, going forward?

TALKING POINT

Snacks at school? Let's just roll with it

CAN you imagine the outrage when Greggs put up the prices of its sausage rolls last week?

It could add fuel to the fuel of bosses at Shirley Manor Primary in Bradford, however, which has banned the savoury snacks, along with pork pies and pepperoni sticks from school lunchboxes.

It has even gone so far as asking children to reveal the contents of their packed lunch before being allowed to tuck in. One has visions of an I'm A Celebrity... contestant showing the insides of their mouths to prove they've eaten the live cockroach for a bush Tucker trial.

The school says it is to encourage healthy eating and a more physical lifestyle. But if any prohibited items are discovered the packed lunch can be taken away. How can that be good for them?

The move has been branded ridiculous by parents, who say the school should stick to teaching the children. They add the decision-makers do not take into account fussy eaters and claim they, more than any school, should know what their child likes and doesn't like.

Rightly so, in my opinion. Surely a healthy appetite just doesn't mean eating food that is supposedly good for you.

The problem I suspect, is more a health and safety issue. You see, when I was at school, dining ate into just 10 minutes of our lunch period. The rest of the time, like at other breaks, we were running around the playground, letting off steam, burning off calories, something that all youngsters should be allowed to do.

But with today's health and safety rules, it seems that the powers-that-be are scared to let children play and run around – despite being warned against obesity and a sedentary lifestyle – in case they fall over or bump into someone else and hurt themselves.

Accidents can occur at any time and in all walks of life. Surely encouraging children to be just that, while advocating the benefits of sport, would be more beneficial than telling them that they can't tuck into the buffet at Christmas.

Calls have even been made for youngsters to be banned from tackling in rugby for fear of injuries. How ridiculous! It's a key part of the game and is as much a skill as being able to sidestep a player. Surely a ban would surely reduce the game as a spectacle.

Anyone taking part in any activity would know the risks involved. So, can we just let our children grow up, educate them, teach them right from wrong and encourage them to get out and enjoy themselves more?

Problems ahead with monthly benefit

WHILST not wanting to join the argument about Universal Credit being introduced to replace other benefits, I feel that the one big problem is moving the payments from fortnightly to monthly.

When I worked at a large company there was a move to change wages from weekly in cash to monthly paid into a bank account, this was done on a gradual basis over a long period with help in the form of advances to help staff over the transition.

Now these were well paid people who were not on work-related benefits as they did not exist then but, even so, some found the first couple of months a struggle.

Therefore, it is no surprise that people who are on a low income, only just managing, cannot change easily to getting nothing for a month and then one big payment which they have to budget with.

Having to make the choice of something for the kids or paying the rent cannot be easy.

Most of the programmes on television give the impression of people who have no culture of managing money, rather they spend it like kids with pocket money.

I know these are always extreme cases just to wind the rest of us up but surely it must be seen that the money is better given out in manageable amounts.

As to large numbers being behind with their rents, it is time this was looked at again and at least in the case of social housing, which is being supported by taxpayers, the rent should be deducted at source.

Admire Invictus and Harry

I HAVE been watching the Invictus Games. It makes me feel ashamed when I moan about a cold or my aching 71-year-old bones.

I saw men and women with no arms or legs, young people coming together from all over the world who competed alongside other ex-soldiers.

There were no winners or losers, every one of those people made me realise how lucky I am. I think I have problems but these great men and women are a far better person than I will ever be.

I hope the Invictus Games goes on to become as big as the Olympics, the marathon and the Tour de France. These courageous men and women never gave up. But they rose above it and thanks to the great young man Prince Harry they have put the Invictus Games on the map.

My heart and my admiration goes out to them.

Behind our backs

I am writing on behalf of myself and the other residents of School Street, Pensnett. There are two plots of land in School Street; a few months ago builders applied to buy and build on this land. Dudley Council planning department threw it out, on the grounds that the area was already overdeveloped and effects on existing residents – privacy, parking, wildlife being affected, including (supposedly) protected bats, also seven beautiful well-established silver birch trees being torn out, to name but a few of the reasons.

The builders reapplied and this time the application was handled in Bristol. Unbelievably the Bristol planning department approved it! The people who approved it don't even live here! What's angered us all in School Street is none of us were informed about the application being approved, we only found out by chance, this was all done behind our backs.

Many will be left bankrupt

THE Bank of England continues to predict interest rate rises, because inflation is running ahead of wage rises.

This would mean a 'double whammy' for those buying their own homes, an increase in mortgage payments and in any credit card payments.

I fail to see how those who are 'just about managing' will be able to afford this.

The Bank of England has also made clear there will be no more buying of bank shares to counter a surge of bad debt. The banks must ensure enough reserves to deal with another downturn.

This means large numbers of ordinary people facing bankruptcy.

Yet I have not heard a word from either of the two main party leaders about this.

Raids find £15k worth of illegal tobacco and alcohol

TRADING standards seized more than £15,000 of illegal tobacco and counterfeit vodka during raids across Sandwell.

More than 150,000 illegal cigarettes and packets of rolling tobacco, and four bottles of vodka, were confiscated in the operations held across Sandwell.

Sandwell Council's leader Steve Eling warned shop owners risk losing their license if caught out. Meanwhile Bob Charnley, trading standards and licensing manager at Sandwell, warned illegal tobacco sales encourages children and young adults to smoke.

A sniffer dog was used during the operations held in Rowley Regis and West Bromwich.

Concealed stashes of illegal tobacco were found hidden inside the four shops – with hiding places including behind a fuse box, a false wall and in crisp boxes.

The raids were carried out in a joint intelligence-led operation between Sandwell trading standards and West Midlands Police as part of the annual Safer 6 campaign which takes place each year in Sandwell aimed at improving the borough.

The shops are now being investigated by trading standards and face criminal prosecution which could result in an unlimited fine and 10 years imprisonment.

Bob Charnley, Sandwell trading standards and licensing manager, said: "People who deal in illegal tobacco are more likely to encourage others, especially children and young adults, to smoke. All tobacco is harmful but the illegal tobacco market and in particular the availability of cheap cigarettes makes it harder for smokers to quit."

To contact Trading Standards, call the Confidential Fakes Hotline on 03003 032636 or visit sandwell.gov.uk/tradingstandards website.

Investigation expanding at 2 Sisters sites

THE investigation into food giant 2 Sisters is to be expanded to its other plants across the country, the Food Standards Agency has announced.

Inspectors have been on site at the West Bromwich plant following damaging allegations over food hygiene which have plunged the company into turmoil, with the likes of Tesco and M&S suspending chicken orders.

The firm also has plants in Wednesfield, Wolverhampton, and Smethwick, which could now be inspected.

The FSA said it had not identified food safety issues in West Bromwich, but that investigations had "highlighted issues requiring management attention, for example in relation to some aspects of staff training and stock control".

Allegations over hygiene and practices emerged following undercover filming by ITV and the Guardian newspaper.

More speed cameras if funds found

SPEED enforcement cameras could be rolled out across the Black Country following a successful trial in other areas.

West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson is in talks with councils in Dudley, Walsall, Sandwell and Wolverhampton to see if they are willing to part-fund the scheme. It follows a pilot in Birmingham and Solihull, which police say has led to a marked reduction in speeding.

Combined with mobile units and smart motorway cameras, the average speed cameras issued £8 million in fines over the trial period, which is due to continue until February.

There are currently 160 mobile camera sites across the West Midlands.

A report to the force's Strategic Crime and Policing board noted a drastic increase in recorded offences in the first two months the cameras went live. The number of offences detected rose from 4,000 in July to 12,000 in August and around 8,500 in September. However, the report shows that by October the number of offences had fallen 'back to normality' at around the 4,500 mark.

Mr Jamieson, an advocate of average speed cameras, said: "Speed is one of the biggest causes of deaths on the road and one of the biggest issues that local people raise with me."

Gin and jazz at pub's three day festival

A REAL ale pub is branching out by staging a three-day gin and jazz event next month.

More than 100 gins will be featured in an Art Deco-themed marquee at The Swan in Long Lane, Halesowen, during the festival from November 9 to 11. There will be music from jazz singers and musicians during the event.

Lorry gets wedged under bridge

Vehicles over 4.4 metres should not drive under the bridge. Photo: @Secondcitylee

A LORRY driver got more than he bargained for when he got caught under a notorious low bridge.

The Home Bargains driver tore off the roof of his lorry under the bridge, which is close to Sandwell and Dudley Railway Station, on Sunday afternoon.

The lorry was stranded along Bromford Road in Oldbury between Fountain Lane and Brandon Way at 1.50pm.

Passers-by caught these images of the lorry trapped beneath the bridge.

West Midlands Police and West Midlands Fire Service were called to the scene, though the driver got out of the lorry before they arrived. @Secondcitylee who tweeted the images said: "Not a good day for #HomeBargains." No injuries were reported.

A spokeswoman for West Midlands fire service said: "We were called to the scene by police at 12.55pm on Sunday. No one was trapped or injured. We sent out our technical rescue crew to ensure the structural safety of the bridge and alerted Network Rail who then attended the scene." Fire crews were still at the scene at 3pm.

Despite a large 'low bridge' sign and a warning not to drive vehicles higher than 4.4 metres under the bridge, it is not the first time unsuspecting drivers have been caught out. In September 2016 a lorry was trapped, blocking the road to traffic, whilst earlier that year in May, trains and traffic were delayed as another driver caught his HGV under the bridge.

Killer Barley's threats were ignored – claim

KILLER Aaron Barley, who murdered Tracey Wilkinson and her son Pierce, threatened to kill the Stourbridge mother just three days before stabbing them – but support workers 'ignored' the warning, it has been claimed.

Mrs Wilkinson, aged 50, reportedly told volunteers about death threats from Aaron Barley, 24, just days before he stabbed her and her 13-year-old son to death in their home on March 30.

But support workers at the Atlantic House Recovery Centre, on Dudley Road, Stourbridge, did not inform police according to a national newspaper report. It is alleged the incident was just one of four cases of concerning behaviour that support workers did not pass on.

Barley also expressed a desire to kill in front of volunteers at Atlantic House, according to The Times. One volunteer said they were worried about his attitude to women and another was left thinking he either wanted to 'kill a copper' or a prison officer'.

Robust

Change, Grow, Live, the charity that runs Atlantic House, said managers would have immediately informed police if they had heard about the threats.

A centre spokesman confirmed that it had 'a robust policy for reporting to the police violent intent, threats or an indication to commit a crime'. They said: 'If a member of staff, volunteer or service user raises concerns – we would report this to the police immediately.'

It added that if information was kept back it was 'out of our control

Tracey Wilkinson – it is claimed that she reported threats made by Barley

Pierce Wilkinson – the 13-year-old schoolboy was killed by Aaron Barley to escalate to police' and 'no concern was ever raised or reported to Atlantic House Recovery Centre about Aaron Barley'.

Barley's former foster mother read violent threats on his Facebook page in which he wrote about 'taking down' his family and reported this West Midlands Police.

Detective Superintendent Tom Chisholm, head of the West Midlands Police homicide investigation team, and a detective with 22 years experience, said after the trial: 'It is the most shocking case I have ever dealt with because of the unpredictable level of violence. There was no build up to it. It was completely unexpected and it is very unusual for there to be no clear motive for a crime of this magnitude.'

On March 30 Barley he lay in wait armed with a knife in the back garden of their Greyhound Lane home until Mr Wilkinson took the family dog for a walk, crept upstairs where he stabbed Mrs Wilkinson and her son.

He ambushed Mr Wilkinson, then stole the family Land Rover Discovery which he crashed in nearby Norton Road when chased by police.

Det Supt Chisholm added: 'It is incredibly rare that we deal with an incident that has such a massive impact both on the victims' family, the wider community and officers that investigated it.'

Wedding Fair
22nd October

Newfields banqueting suite is holding its first ever wedding fair on 22nd October, there will be plenty to look at and sample. There will be two bridal catwalk shows with TDR outlet and welcome drinks on arrival. So please come down and have a look at Halesowen's best kept secret.

Doors open at 10am until 4pm

Newfield Banqueting Suite

Furnace Lane, Halesowen B63 3LU
Telephone: 0121 550 1454

ADVERTISEMENT A HIDDEN GEM

Newfield's Banqueting Suite is perhaps one of the best kept secrets in Halesowen, being tucked away behind a hedge and tall trees halfway up Furnace Hill and opposite The Earl's High School many local residents are unaware of its' existence.

Home for over 80 years to local Freemasons, Newfield's is a large property comprising the original house built in the mid 19th century and formerly owned by a member of the Somers family, plus a "modern" extension erected in the 1930's.

From the extensive car park a few steps lead to double doors opening onto the welcoming reception foyer, to the right of which is the well appointed and tastefully decorated Lounge Bar which can comfortably seat up to 50. Again from the foyer but to the left and through double doors lies the function room which is light and airy with a solid wooden parquet floor and a stage. This room can accommodate up to 90 diners in a traditional table plan or 80 with round tables. For less formal occasions such as buffets the maximum room capacity is 120.

It is ideal for Wedding receptions, Birthday and Anniversary celebrations, concerts and seminars.

The recent appointment of Matt Eades of Thinking Food to provide the catering will ensure all aspects of service are of the highest standard. Matt has over 25 years experience in the catering sector and is particularly skilled in larger functions having worked for prestigious Golf Clubs and similar establishments, and he is equally comfortable with providing traditional fayre or innovative menus for those with a more adventurous taste.

Clergy are appointed canons of cathedral

FOUR vicars have been appointed honorary canons in recognition of their work in both the Worcester diocese and the wider church.

They were chosen by the Bishop of Worcester and will form a bridge between the diocese and Worcester Cathedral, where they were installed in their new roles.

Jan Humphries, lay minister in Gornal and Sedgeley; the Reverend Sue Oliver, vicar of St Mark's Church in Pensnett; Reverend Alex Vaccaro, associate priest in the Kidderminster Ismere team; and Reverend Rob Hall, Rector of the Halas Team in Halesowen, were appointed.

The bishop, the Rt Rev Dr John Inge, said: "These people who have given and continue to give outstanding service to the church in the Diocese of Worcester. They will be great ambassadors for the cathedral in the diocese and vice versa."

Mr Oliver said: "I am so very humbled and thankful for this invitation to be installed as an honorary canon at Worcester Cathedral, the place where I was ordained priest and love so much."

Mr Hall added: "I have known and loved Worcester Cathedral since first visiting it as a 12-year-old boy from Stourbridge."

Thousands of vehicles seized in crackdown

POLICE have seized more than 11,500 cars from uninsured drivers in the West Midlands over the last 12 months, figures have revealed.

The vehicles were recovered from roads across the region and can be impounded or destroyed under current police powers. It comes as the force launched a clampdown on uninsured drivers.

According to figures revealed in a report to the region's Strategic Policing and Crime board, West Midlands Police (WMP) seized 11,550 cars in 2016/17.

The figure includes 268 vehicles that were seized in one week alone in October 2016, and comes ahead of the force's No Insurance Week of Action, which is due to start on Monday.

The report says that 47 per cent of the vehicles recovered for no insurance had been spot checked by traffic or motorway patrol officers.

The region's Police and Crime Commissioner, David Jamieson introduced powers to seize and destroy uninsured vehicles when he was a road safety minister in 2004.

He said: "This was in answer to the menace of uninsured drivers, who are often in untaxed and unsafe vehicles."

Majority

"I know that the vast majority of law-abiding motorists will welcome this action by West Midlands Police as they are sick of paying the price for uninsured drivers."

WMP works closely with the Motor Insurance Bureau (MIB) to tackle uninsured drivers.

The MIB shares its database of uninsured vehicles on a weekly basis, which enables police forces to target enforcement against vehicles that are known to be uninsured.

The force says that although it doesn't have the resources to investigate a vehicle every time it flags up on an automatic number plate recognition camera, officers do have the power to seize and destroy vehicles that are stopped.

Earlier this month the MIB revealed that accidents involving uninsured drivers have increased for the first time since 2004.

Over the last year claims have gone up by 10 per cent to reach 12,000.

The rise bucked the trend of a steady decrease in claims every year from 2004-2016.

Ashton West, chief executive at the MIB, said the figures highlighted the devastating impact of uninsured driving on communities and families.

Mayor visits 50th firm

THE Mayor of Dudley has reached the halfway mark in his pledge to visit 100 businesses in the borough during his year in office.

Councillor Dave Tyler's visit to The Alan Nuttall Partnership was the 50th business he has seen so far. Councillor Tyler said: "We are lucky to have so many vibrant, ambitious businesses in the borough and it has been fascinating visiting them to find out more about their work."

Old £1 coins soon no longer legal tender

A BUILDING society is urging people to check piggy banks, old handbags and the back of their sofas for old-style £1 coins while they remain legal tender.

Any of the 'old' circular £1 coins will only be able to be traded in at banks and building societies after the October 15 deadline – this includes branches of Dudley Building Society.

The new 12-sided £1 coin entered circulation at the end of March with much less publicity than was seen for the changes in £5 and £10 notes. This has led to concern a number of people will be left with coins that are unable to use in the shops.

The new coin has been branded the most secure in the world with 1.5 billion of them now in circulation.

The society, which has branches in Brierley Hill, Gornal, Kingswinford, Perton and Dudley town centre, will accept the old coins from both members and non-members.

12 Baggies boost their link with city university

WEST Bromwich Albion FC has extended its partnership with a university.

University of Wolverhampton will be the club's Further Education Partner until 2019 after it started four years ago.

It will mean advertising at The Hawthorns for the university as well as a presence from the club at university open days.

The club also aims to develop internship and work placement opportunities for University of Wolverhampton students across several departments at the Club.

Albion's chief commercial officer, Simon King, said: "The University continues to symbolise everything we look for when forming new partnerships.

"A clear ambition to develop on an international scale, without losing touch of the importance of close community links.

"We've already made significant strides with the University in recent years and we're looking forward to strengthening our relationship in the years to come."

Professor Ian Oakes, Deputy Vice-Chancellor of the uni, said: "We are delighted to be extending our sponsorship with a key partner in West Bromwich Albion. The club have firmly established themselves in the Premier League and like the University has built up a strong reputation and brand profile in the UK and internationally."

Wedding fair on way to Lightwoods

Blind Dave's story on screen

Fundraiser Blind Dave Heeley's inspirational story of amazing deeds is being made into a film

The poster for the film

Filming a scene portraying a moment from Dave's childhood

Experienced TV actress Sarah Manners on the set

Discussing a scene with Charlie Boswell, playing young Dave

THE cameras are well and truly rolling now on 7 Days – a film about the Black Country's own Blind Dave Heeley.

Dave is the first blind man to complete seven marathons in seven continents in seven days. This story, and many other of his great achievements, will be told in the 40-minute film due to be released later this year.

A recent weekend of filming saw young Charlie Boswell make his acting debut as the schoolboy Dave.

Updating the movie blog, Pixel Revolution Films wrote: "We had another productive weekend of filming and managed to film a lot of the young Dave scenes. We had a great cast including Charlie Boswell, playing Dave.

Himself

"Charlie had never acted before, but just like the real Dave, he's an Albion super fan and keen runner. So, this meant that Charlie really just had to be himself on camera.

"But, it was important for us to create an environment that would allow him to feel relaxed and comfortable. Our producer Nigel Martin-Davey did an outstanding job as usual, ensuring that everything went without a major hiccup."

Releasing new images of filming, the blog continues: "Charlie proved to be a natural in front of the camera and was a joy to work with. We of course have to give a big thanks to Charlie's mum, Sam for her support during the shoot.

"Also working with us for the first

There has also been more scenes shot involving the older Dave alias

Jane Campion Hoye, who plays Dave's Mum. Jane gave us a beautifully subtle but emotional performance. Playing the part of Dave's dad was Carl Wharton, who last worked with us on Evolution. Carl is an outstanding screen actor who really inhabits his role."

Dave, who discovered he was going blind at the age of 10, has told of his pride about the film. The 59-year-old's achievements include finishing the gruelling Escape from Alcatraz swim, running 10 marathons in 10 days from John O'Groats to Land's End and a 700-mile week-long bike ride between Zurich and Birmingham. This year he is running each of the 25 Great Run events.

He said: "I feel quite privileged and also very proud that somebody wants to do it."

"When the book came out I still didn't really believe I'd had a book published and what had happened in my life was between the covers.

"Stuff like this doesn't happen to us lads in West Bromwich.

"I'm quite excited for it. To be honest I think it's absolutely bloody fantastic."

"The support I've had from a lot of people in recent times – including the Baggies, where I've been on the pitch and got the Freedom of The Hawthorns – has been unbelievable."

The film, called 7 Days, will be about 40 minutes long so it can be shown at specific movie festivals.

But the producers said they are hopeful that if it gets a positive response then it could be turned into a feature film.

Blind Dave said: "It's going to be a short film and hopefully it gets the message across to people that anything is possible."

"It will focus on me doing the seven marathons but also have flashbacks to when I was younger and losing my sight."

Former Aston Villa owner Sir Doug Ellis, who is an executive producer on the film, said: "I was glad to support this film about Blind Dave Heeley."

"It will inspire many. His story will show it's not about what you can't do – it's about what you can do."

Pixel Revolution Films have teamed up with South and City College Birmingham on the film.

Pixel Revolution Films was set up by award winning film-makers and digital artists, Ian and Dominic Higgins, with the aim of creating fresh and innovative projects.

Ian and Dominic originally studied art, photography and 3D design at Bournville Art College and only gained their first experience working within a film crew after a job interview at a local pub led to a chance meeting with a BBC set designer who took an interest in their budding script writing and film-making aspirations.

More armed police operations in region

WEST Midlands Police has launched more than 1,000 armed operations in the last six months as the force battles to contain the region's growing gang problem.

Chief Constable Dave Thompson said the 1,054 operations since April were a mixture of swoops that were intelligence led and those that involved spontaneous responses to incidents. He said the figure represented a 'slight increase' on the same period last year, and said it highlighted the need to 'dismantle' gang activity across the West Midlands.

So far this year, 118 guns had been voluntarily surrendered to West Midlands Police, including 37 operational guns and 28 imitation firearms.

Mr Thompson told a meeting of the Strategic Policing and Crime board that the number of firearms incidents across the region averaged around 170 a month.

He said that a 'broader partnership effort' was needed between police and other agencies to combat the use of firearms. 'We are doing a lot of work around disrupting and targeting offenders,' he said, adding that it was vital the force worked with young people.

Mr Thompson added: 'I would appeal to those who are concerned about things happening in their area to immediately contact us directly or through Crimestoppers.'

Kidnapped model defends book deal

Chloe Ayling – offered 'a few thousands' for her story

MODEL Chloe Ayling has defended profiting from her alleged kidnapping ordeal – involving two Polish brothers based in the Black Country – after being paid for television interviews and writing a book.

The 20-year-old claims she was snatched, drugged and held hostage for six days by a group called Black Death after being lured to a fake modelling shoot in Milan in July.

But she has attracted criticism for the way she has handled herself in the media since the incident, with some claiming it was a publicity stunt.

Speaking on ITV's Good Morning Britain, 20-year-old mother-of-one insisted that the truth would be revealed when those accused of being involved in her abduction appear in court. She revealed that she will be getting 'a few thousand pounds' in a book deal and added that she was also paid for some interviews.

Alleged captor, Lukasz Herba, 30, who was living in Tividale, is in custody in Milan. His 36-year-old brother Michal Herba, is to be extradited to Italy but plans to appeal the ruling. Both deny knowingly taking part in a crime.

Spooky treats on witch trail at park

A MONTH-long Spooky Spectacular allows children to follow clues among life-sized sweets to find a gingerbread house at West Midland Safari Park.

However, the wicked witch who resides in the house on the Trick or Treat Trail at the attraction may either give them a treat or a trick. This year's festival also sees the return of Dino Quest with a whole new adventure.

Head entertainments officer Matt Nock said: 'We are all so excited about Halloween this year, especially the addition of our new gingerbread house and resident witch.'

Opening hours will be extended until 9pm on weekends and the October half-term holiday.

Guests are encouraged to dress up. Spooky Spectacular is included in the standard admission of £23 for adults and £18 for children aged three-to-15 years and £21 for concessions.

Shake-up of bus services is on way due to congestion

A MAJOR shake-up of bus services across Dudley borough could be on the way.

National Express said changes to timetables may be needed due to the level of congestion on the roads. An online consultation has been launched to help transport experts with the first major review of bus services in Dudley for almost a decade.

Congestion has increased on the busiest routes, leading to longer journey times, particularly on Birmingham New Road, says the bus firm.

National Express said the last major review of bus services in Dudley took place in 2008.

'Patterns of demand have changed and we may need to change the bus network to reflect this,' said a spokesperson. 'We are working closely with Transport for West Midlands, Dudley Council and other stakeholders to review the network of bus services in and around Dudley to ensure that it meets today's and future needs. We're considering all routes within Dudley borough, as well as some services in Sandwell, Wolverhampton and Birmingham.'

Co-op hits £460m for half year sales

STRONG financial results for the first half of the year have been unveiled by Central England Co-op.

Across its 400 stores, including Dudley, West Bromwich, Oldbury and Great Barr, the business saw sales rise 2.6 per cent to £460.2 million. Trading profit of £11.9m was better than expected but still £1m less than at the same point last year due to improved staff pay and other costs. The Co-op also distributed £2.6m among its members, workforce and the community.

The Central England Co-op employs 8,000 people. It opened five food stores and four funeral homes, refitting 25 sites during the first six months of the year, as part of £19.2m investment. Chief executive Martyn Cheatle said: 'We are encouraged by our progress.'

14 Mental health trust spending less on temps

A MENTAL health trust spent almost £4 million on temporary staff over the last 12 months.

Figures have revealed a total of £3.9 million was paid out on agency workers by the Dudley and Walsall Mental Health Partnership NHS Trust in the year to October.

But the trust said the amount was down from 2015/16 when £6.5 million was spent on temporary staff. The spend is in line with the NHS agency cap, which health organisations should not go above.

Bosses at the trust, which provides mental health services to children and adults in the two boroughs, said they had been working hard to reduce agency spend in recent years. A greater focus was now put on recruitment and using bank staff and that was credited for getting the figure down.

A spokesman for the Dudley and Walsall Mental Health Partnership Trust, said: "We have reduced agency spend since 2015/16 from £6.5 million down to £4.8m in 2016/17."

"We are on target to meet the NHS Improvement agency figure for this year of £4m through a number of initiatives including making use of our bank staff and also by recruiting staff to roles."

"We have been working hard to reduce agency costs and meet the NHS target."

NHS bosses have moved to cut the amount being spent on temporary workers.

Grant helps school to build for early years

A SCHOOL has been given the green light to build an early years facility after receiving a grant of more than £400,000.

The building will be created at Netherbrook Primary School in Netherton after the Education Skills Funding Agency awarded £407,000 to Dudley Council, who will also give £145,000 for the project.

Art imitates working lives

AN ARTIST from Dudley who has captured Morecambe and Wise and Dusty Springfield on canvas is putting his work on show.

The display at the Wyre Forest Gallery at Bewdley Museum is part of the Worcestershire town's literary and music festival.

People engaged in everyday work is the the fascination for portrait painter Keith Turley and Bewdley Festival organisers have arranged for the free admission exhibition, entitled A Fair Day's Work, to run until October 29.

Keith, 68, from Wall Heath, is a member of the Royal Birmingham Society of Artists and Dudley Society of Artists and is also president of the Birmingham Arts Circle.

Although this will be his first exhibition in Worcestershire his work is well-known as he has carried out numerous prestigious commissions, including paintings of Leslie Phillips, Morecambe and Wise, Norman Wisdom, Tommy Cooper and Dusty Springfield. He has also illustrated books about the Only Fools and Hoses and the Dad's Army television series and the Carry On films.

Keith prefers human subjects, often working on a large scale and showing people in work environments.

He said: "There are 28 works on show in the exhibition. I am very honoured to have been asked to take part as the county is not short of artists and it is a privilege to be staging this exhibition. Much of my work has a strong Black Country flavour with

The Chainmakers inspired by the Black Country Living Museum and a glassworker from The Red House Glas Cone. There are also other Black Country linked paintings. They are quite large, some five feet high, and not the sort people hang on their walls.

He will be talking about his work at the museum on October 14, 17, 19, 21, 22, 24, 26 and 29.

Adult social care recruitment drive

Commercial feature

"Transforming services for the most vulnerable in our community and ensuring they are treated with respect, care and kindness is a top priority for us at the council" explains Councillor Nicolas Barlow, Dudley Council's cabinet member for adult social care.

It's this commitment to improving services that is the driving force behind the council's recent recruitment campaign, which will see the authority employ dozens of new staff to help meet the increasing demands on adult social care and reduce pressures on the NHS.

Over the next few weeks the authority is seeking to recruit dedicated, passionate and caring people who all share the same ambition, to change the lives of people across Dudley borough for the better.

A number of fixed term posts are being advertised in various positions, including home care assistants, assistant care co-ordinators and a team assistant.

A full list of more than 60 full time equivalent adult social care jobs including occupational therapists, social and senior social workers, support workers and night sitters can be found at www.dudley.gov.uk/ascjobs

Dedicated

The new staff will work within a number of new teams, which will be dedicated to reducing delayed transfer of care, improving the way people move through the system, giving greater opportunity to provide crisis support within a person's home and improving the success of preventative services, which are designed to help people remain independent within their own home.

Funding for the new recruits will come from Dudley Council's one-off grant of £13.9million, awarded by the government earlier this year as part of a national £2billion improved better care fund.

Senior Occupational Therapist Jennifer Robbins talks options with Mrs Marjorie Hill and Maria Perks

Councillor Barlow continues: "We are an authority that is forward thinking and dedicated to doing what we can to help people change their lives for the better."

"We can use this funding to significantly boost our numbers of staff and to create specialised teams to work in areas where we know we need to provide more support."

"It's essential we act now to ensure we can meet the growing demands on services now and in the future."

"This funding is to help improve the performance of the Urgent Care system, specifically by Reducing Delayed Transfers of Care (DTOC). Dudley Council is putting every effort into achieving this with NHS partners."

In this first year, the council has committed £7 million of its improved better care fund grant.

It will be used to launch the council's emergency response team, which will help people who have gone to the hospital's accident and emergency department and need urgent social care support, to return home and prevent an unnecessary admission into hospital.

The team will provide support in the home, give guidance on self care and introduce assisted technology where necessary. This is expected to prevent hundreds of hospital admissions.

Dudley's Home Care Service received a good rating from the Care Quality Commission and their family or carers, determine how they should be cared for long term.

Nearly half a million pounds will be spent developing a new approach to how we move and transfer people in their home. Traditionally two members of staff would be needed to operate existing equipment but this new approach will see new aids being introduced, which will only need one social care worker or the individual alone to operate them, freeing up staff time to carry out other duties.

The final measure will be to introduce length of stay targets to reduce delays of hospital discharges for people who are medically fit to return home.

All-Stars are turning out at charity match

Mel Eves, Mayor Dave Tyler and Dudley Town chairman Stephen Austin look forward to the charity match. DUDLEY Town Football Club will again clash with Wolves All-Stars to raise funds for charities.

The teams will go head-to-head at The Dell Stadium in Brierley Hill for the first since Wolves 'thrashed' the Dudley boys 6-0.

There is more than just pride at stake this year as the sides are hoping to raise more than last year's total of £600 for the children's ward at Russells Hall Hospital and the Mayor of Dudley's charities – Dudley Mind, Dudley Alzheimer's and the YMCA Empty Rooms project.

Mayor Councillor Dave Tyler said: "It's always a great event and the more crowds we can get the better. We're hoping to get a couple of ex-Albion players down as well."

The mayor said the he was prepared to dig out his soccer boots. "I have got a pair of football boots but I won't be doing much running," he said. "I might kick off and I might pass it a few times but I'm certainly not going to work a sweat up."

It was former player and artist Jody Craddock leading the Wolves to a comfortable win under the wing of Wolves All-Stars manager Mel Eves last year. Former player Eves has been in charge of the All-Stars charity team since 1997. Tickets for the match, which kicks off at 2.30pm on November 19, cost £5 adults and £3 children and OAPs. You don't need to throw out your old kitchen to make it look good again!

Happily, for Mrs Morgan (and her pet Chihuahua), after a visit from our friendly local adviser who was satisfied her existing units were in good condition, we arranged to replace her kitchen cupboard doors and provide matching trims, new handles and drawer boxes all made to measure for a perfect fit.

You may be thinking that way too, just request our latest brochure to see what we could do for your kitchen.

There's never any obligation, but like Mrs Morgan, you could be pleasantly surprised at how much you could save when compared to a new kitchen, and just how quickly it could all be done.

With Christmas around the corner it may well make sense to put a day aside to get the kitchen ready.

Five-year-old rescued from canal by his pal

MORGAN Bridgens didn't think twice when he saw his friend fall into the canal. By the time he got to five-year-old William Smith he had gone under the water and could have drowned had it not been for his actions.

Ten-year-old Morgan described how he managed to pull William to safety from the Black Country canal just in time. His mother Carly Smart said she was immensely proud of her son's life-saving actions.

The drama happened as the pair were playing on a rope swing on the banks on Stourbridge Canal off Longboat Lane in Wordsley. After the rope swing broke William wandered off to get another stick with the hope of fixing it.

Arms

But Morgan suddenly heard a 'big splash' and went running down a set of steps to where the noise came from. When he got to the bottom he saw Will in the water and was sinking under the surface. Morgan got onto his stomach on the canal path, outstretched his arms and pulled his friend out of the canal.

Carly, 30, a mother-of-three from Wordsley, said: "Morgan panicked at first and didn't know what to do. He told me 'I had to get him out, mom'. He saw Will go under two or three times. When Will went under again, Morgan got him by the arms and pulled him out.

"I didn't know what had happened when Morgan came back home. Morgan sat there all quiet and I knew

Morgan Bridgens pulled William Smith to safety after he plunged into the canal youngest son Rio, five, is in William's class, which is how the boys know each other. Carly added: "I'm really proud of Morgan. He has received lots of praise for his actions and it has opened his eyes."

She said she wanted to highlight what happened as a warning to parents about the dangers of canals that criss-cross the Black Country.

Home Owners aged 50+ Protect your home from future care home fees

"We've worked hard and saved all our lives. Why should the Local Authority get it all?"

Most of our clients come to us having already made standard Mirror Wills or have been meaning to make a Will but simply haven't got around to it. With Property Trust Wills, yourself and your spouse/partner each leave your half share of the home to the children in Trust but state that they are not to receive it during the lifetime of the surviving spouse/partner. This half would then NOT be included in any future means test calculations for care fees. The surviving spouse is free to sell their share of the home, raise cash or move house. Your children are powerless to intervene but simply have to wait for their inheritance, as they would have done previously.

April King Legal are your local estate law specialists and have prepared a jargon-free guide to protecting your hard earned assets. Call for your free copy today. Your details will remain confidential and never passed to any third party.

These invaluable information packs also include details of Lasting Power of Attorney and our special Bloodline Trust Wills which help prevent your children and grandchildren from losing their inheritance due to a child's divorce, remarriage or financial difficulties.

Does this sound familiar?

"We have made our Wills, leaving everything to each other and then to the children."

These are known as Mirror Wills. Sounds reassuring enough, doesn't it? But your children could in fact end up with very little or even nothing at all.

If your surviving spouse has to go into care, they will have to use all their assets to pay for their care until they get down to their last £14,250. It is therefore not a good idea to leave your half share of the home to your surviving partner but instead leave them the use of your share. This can be achieved by making new Property Trust Wills. These legitimate steps must be taken while you are both alive and in reasonable good mental health. It is therefore important for couples to act now!

20 Get down and get with Slade Alive!

ALBUMS

by Leon Burakowski

THINK of Slade and most folks conjure images of outrageous 1970s gear or hear perennial festive earworm Merry Xmas Everybody.

What many forget is just what a great rock 'n' roll band the Black Country hit-makers were.

To prove that point, the group's classic album Slade Alive! has been reissued by BMG as a handsome hard-cover CD with 28-page booklet or, for the retro groovers, 180g vinyl with six-page 12 inch booklet.

Marking the 45th anniversary of its original release, this seven-track blast from the past shows a band at their most comfortable performing live.

Energy

Famously recorded for just £600 in a London recording studio in front of an invited audience of fans, the album still resonates with raw energy.

Noddy Holder rules the roost, joking with fans that he has to find the right key before unleashing that famous Black Country roar, while the formidable rhythm section of Jim Lea and Don Powell keep up a stomping bluesy beat, as Dave Hill contributes vigorous guitar and asides.

The album came out just before Slade became Top Of The Pops regulars with a string of hits. This is the sound of a hard-gigging band that knew how to get an audience ready to Get Down And Get With It, the name of the Bobby Marchan soul stomper that they cover here and was their debut hit.

Slade originals In Like A Shot From A Gun, Know Who You Are and Keep On Rocking are performed alongside covers of Ten Years After's Hear Me Callin', John Sebastian's Darling Be Home Soon and, Slade's favourite set closer, Steppenwolf's Born To Be Wild.

Raucous, fun and wild, it's easy to see why this inspired Joey Ramone to form the band that kickstarted punk and led Noel Gallagher to cite Slade as one of the great British rock bands.

When it comes to great bands on stage, American connoisseurs of the wilder realms of vintage rock 'n' roll, The Cramps were hard to beat. The death of singer Lux Interior in 2009 ended their reign as most exulted proponents of rockabilly and surf beat but the spirit lives on in the Cherry Red Records 60-track various artists compilation Jukebox In Crampsville.

Inspired by Lux and his partner Poi Son Ivy's rare record collection, this plunders the more obscure corners of 1950s and 60s rock 'n' roll, blues, jazz, doo wop, surf and exotica for some gems and quite a few weird novelties. Only a few familiar names appear, including some blues and country artists who went on to find mainstream success with less esoteric material. But these lo-fi offerings, featuring lots of honking horns and twangy guitars, have vintage appeal.

Cherry Red's Doctor Bird imprint has released on CD a couple of excellent early reggae albums. Derek Harriot & The Crystallites' Psychedelic Train is an expanded edition of one of the legendary Trojan label's best-sellers of 1970 featuring sweetly sung rock-steady and tight instrumentals. Highlights include Message From A Black Man and Laugh It Off. Various artists album Gay Feet showcases Sonia Pottinger's label of that name which found success in mid-60s Jamaica with its soulful R&B and ska instrumentals, particularly those featuring trumpeter Baba Brooks.

Making 80s as popular now as it was then

The Wedding Singer, Grand Theatre, Wolverhampton

It's odd when you hear the era in which you considered yourself to be young described as "retro."

It feels as if you are ancient and that the kids of today see the 1980s in the same way you would see the 1940s. But, judging by the audience reaction to Nick Winston's production of The Wedding Singer at the Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, it seems the '80s is as popular now as it was then.

Starring the quirky but cute Adam Sandler and Drew Barrymore at her most delightful, the 1998 movie version of The Wedding Singer was a massive hit and naturally lent itself to becoming a musical theatre show.

This is not a jukebox show however, but a full-on musical theatre production complete with an original score, a witty script and high-energy dance routines.

And, the simple storyline flows evenly in between the songs to offer a modest, but entertaining production.

It's the tale of Robbie, a New Jersey wedding singer and wannabe rock star, whose usually excitable demeanour hits rock bottom when he is jilted at the alter.

For those expecting the catalogue of hits from the film version, the score may be a little bit of a disappointment, but by musical theatre standards it is upbeat.

ALISON NORTON

Tzu-Chao Chou as the Djinn of the Lamp in Aladdin

This djinn was a tonic in spectacular ballet

THEATRE REVIEWS

Aladdin and Yaoqian Shang as delicate as a lotus blossom as the Princess. Delightful comedy was provided by Marion Tait (the company's assistant director) as Aladdin's concerned mother. Max Maslen was a blue blur as the whirling djinn, spinning and leaping with almost supernatural power. This djinn was a real tonic.

The ensemble performed Bintley's delightful choreography, its romance and cheeky humour with aplomb. The combination of spectacle and the sinfonia's performance of a majestic score by Carl Davis was all you could wish for, with or without a lamp. The BRB return to Birmingham Hippodrome with Christmas favourite The Nutcracker, November 24 to December 13.

TV comic Dara is fascinated with space

DARA O'BRIAIN loves the unusual, the quirky, the absurd – and this is clearly demonstrated in his first children's book, Beyond The Sky, about the weird and wonderful world of space.

Unlike other comedians who have written books for children – David Walliams, Russell Brand, Julian Clary and Adrian Edmondson spring to mind – Dara has followed a different course, amusing nine-to-12-year-olds and curious adults with this dip-in treat of fabulous facts which should have the kids – and adults – laughing out loud.

Did you know, for instance, that the European country astronauts always recognised at night was Belgium because it had a law that every road must be lit at night?

Or that Russian astronauts used to urinate on their transfer bus tyres before boarding their rockets?

These, and a host of other interesting facts about space, planets, astronauts and the stars, are featured in the book.

Dara, 45, who is currently writing material for a forthcoming mammoth stand-up tour, says he didn't try the space material out on his own kids.

"I never even thought of doing it for the same reason I don't try out new material on my wife. As a comedy performer you don't try out your jokes on the person nearest to you, because it wears them down and puts tension in the house."

The book may at first sight seem a lighthearted look at space, but the fast-talking Irishman is a heavyweight when it comes to science. He studied mathematical physics at University College Dublin and yet gave up the chance of an academic career for stand-up comedy, which then expanded into TV presenting, hosting topical panel shows like Mock The Week and The Apprentice: You're Fired.

So, why didn't he choose a scientific career?

"It was the sheer thrill of performance," he muses. "It turned out, to my surprise, that I was a trouper, I wanted to be in front of an audience, which was a major surprise to me, because I wasn't a class clown or anything."

"I stood in front of an audience at university doing debating and the laughs just created a surge inside. Suddenly the dialogue felt good and created a rush. I still feel that now, but it takes more effort – three to six months of writing a two-hour show, but it's a more substantial kind of a feeling now."

"I still get fidgety sitting in a theatre, and think I'd rather be in front of this crowd than in this crowd. That's a performer's thing."

He may be reaching out to youngsters with this book, but he's given talks on stargazing at schools, including his own children's school, so he's fairly familiar with his audience.

Switching from writing for children to writing for adults wasn't too arduous, he reflects.

"I went straight from the book to writing a grown-up stand-up show. That's a gear change. But when you start giggling, you have time to do other things – and I was a kids' TV presenter for a couple of years."

The stand-up tour material is getting there, slowly, he says. He will feature Brexit although he's steering clear of Trump and North Korea, he says.

"When you're writing a stand-up show, you're writing it for a two-year tour. The same show will finish in Oslo in 2019 or in Melbourne in 2020. You can't do this week's Trump story. The subjects have to be strong enough to withstand being told 150 times."

"Jokes which are funny the first 60 times may become boring by the 61st time. It's amazing how much stuff you shed over the course of a tour."

He's hoping to do another series of BBC Two's Star-gazing next year and is hosting another Robot Wars, but won't be doing any more series of The Apprentice: You're Fired! I did five years and I'm very happy to hand it over to someone else. It was a fun show to do, but you can interview enough people in shiny suits who want to be on The Apprentice, and I think I had my fill with 84 of them."

Beyond The Sky by Dara O'Briain is published by Scholastic, priced £12.99.

Make sure there's a natural consequence for losing something – replacing an item with their own money

How to help children learn to look after their things

By Lisa Salmon

IF you're sick of your child losing their possessions, try some of these tips to help them understand value and learn to look after things.

Young children losing their possessions is the bane of nearly every parent's life. Research has found that mums spend more than £1,500 replacing items lost by their kids between the ages of three and 10, plus nearly two days looking for a total of 483 lost items over the years.

The most common items to lose are hats, jumpers and cuddly toys, and the research by children's label manufacturer NeatlyNamed found 62% of lost possessions such as coats, school uniform items and books, are never found again. Around half of mothers say they've known their children to lose items within just 20 minutes of getting them, and 40% admit they've had to replace the same item repeatedly. But six in 10 mums say losing items as a child helps them appreciate the value of things later in life.

"How you deal with this when they're very young makes it easier – or not so easy if you don't do it properly – when they get a bit older," says Parenting expert Suzie Hayman, agony aunt for Woman magazine.

"It's your job as a parent to be in charge. You cannot expect a young person to manage looking after their stuff – you have to be hyper-vigilant and gradually let them understand that it's their job to look after their stuff."

Here are some top tips to help your kids keep tabs on their possessions...

1. Get them into a routine to help them remember to put their stuff away in or out of the house.

2. Put a checklist above their backpacks or even just inside it, to remind them what goes inside.

3. Make sure there's a natural consequence for losing something – replacing an item with their own money, or if they're too young for that, or simply going without a coat and getting cold if they've lost their new one.

4. Don't just tell them how to keep track of their possessions – ask them what they think would help them not to lose things.

5. Explain value to young children, and play games where they buy things with pretend money.

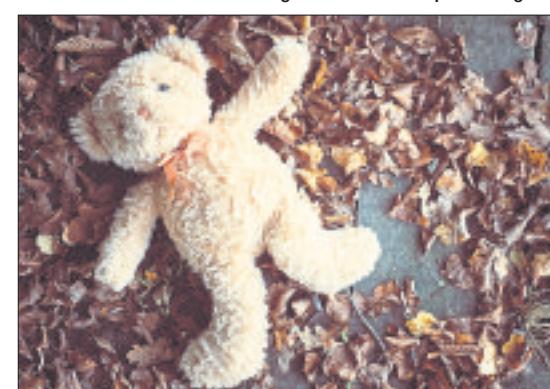

6. Label everything with their full name, and keep reminding them about looking after their things.

7. By the time children go to secondary school, they should be fully responsible for their possessions. "They should realise you had to pay for it and if they lose it they have to pay for it," says Suzie.

8. Don't bail children out if they lose things. "It seems the easy option because

Scolding a child will not help them to grow up and become more responsible

Label everything with their full name

If they lose something, check when they last had it you don't have an argument or tears," says Suzie. "But what you will have is more losses, because why should they ever learn if you're always going to bail them out? They're always going to look to you to help because you've shown them you're a sucker. That's not a good lesson, and you're not helping them to be responsible."

9. Come up with ideas to make sure they don't lose things, or have them stolen.

If they lose something, walk them back through when they last had it, where could it have gone, etc.

10. Young children can't be expected to be responsible when they're little, but they can expect you to teach them responsibility.

11. Teach them how to look after their possessions in the same way you'd teach them to cross the road. "Start by holding their hand, then teaching them how to do it, then you let them have a few practice runs while you're looking after them, and then finally you let them cross on their own," explains Suzie.

12. Rewards can be used if a child is struggling with not losing things and doesn't lose anything for a certain period.

13. Remember children are much less likely to lose something when they've paid for it themselves.

Neil: it's not so easy to write a hit record

Ever-green singer Neil Diamond will return to Birmingham to headline the city's Arena tonight and Genting Arena on Sunday. The star is celebrating his 50th anniversary, having last played Birmingham when he headlined the Genting Arena in 2015.

Having sold more than 130 million albums worldwide, Neil has an enviable back catalogue that includes Sweet Caroline, Cracklin' Rosie, Love on the Rocks and Forever in Blue Jeans.

Neil is delighted to be back on the road after taking a couple of years out from his regular touring work.

"This is my usual schedule. Every two or three years I go out there. But the reaction to this one has been a little different. We've put 50 cities on sale and the response has been way high. It's been very heartening to me. I've been doing this 50 years and to have an audience that's out there and anxious and enthusiastic is exciting."

He didn't imagine he'd have made it this far. Neil is all too aware that rock'n'roll careers seldom last into their 50th year and when he started out artists tended to just have two or three records. After that, they were bombed out by their record company and it was on to the next.

He's not the only one who's lasted the course, however. Nobody imagined The Rolling Stones would still be singing Satisfaction 50 years later.

ENDURING

But Neil was part of a generation that also included other enduring stars, such as Mick Jagger, Paul McCartney, Bob Dylan and Brian Wilson. Before them, artists didn't have long careers – with very few exceptions.

Neil has a vast catalogue of work from which to choose when he is playing live. He usually finds the opening song and if that gets him excited, the rest of the show writes itself. There are ups and downs, valleys, left turns, quiet moments and bombastic moments. "You just keep adding songs and work from the song before it. Eventually you get to a point after two hours where you think, 'OK, let's wrap it.'

However, it's not all blockbuster tunes. Neil is keen to find space for newer cuts so that he can keep the show exciting for him and the rest of the band. He's also played songs by Leonard Cohen, Joni Mitchell and more.

But it's tunes like Sweet Caroline that the fans want – and it's a tune he's played more than 1,500 times live.

Neil's other ultra-popular songs are Cherry Cherry, Cracklin' Rose, I Am I Said, Brother's Love Travelling Salvation Show, Beautiful Noise, Holly Holly, Forever in Blue Jeans, America and You Don't Bring Me Flowers.

"I want to create a list of songs that I haven't done before. 'If You Go Away' is as definite candidate. 'Suzanne' is a definite candidate. I have a list, but I want to keep some of them surprises.

There will be a bunch of additions to the set list.

Hopefully they'll be accepted by people. If they are, we'll keep doing them."

The veteran songwriter is making the most

Forever in blue jeans – Neil's on his 50th anniversary tour of his 50th anniversary and a career-spanning box set features 50 hand-picked songs from his career.

The star began his career as a Brill Building songwriter and wrote for Jay and the Americans,

The Monkees and other stars. He was the brains behind I'm a Believer and A Little Bit Me, a Little Bit You, among many others.

Stars flocked to play his music, with his work covered by musicians including Elvis Presley, Frank Sinatra, Johnny Cash and UB40, who turned his 1968 song Red Red Wine into a Number One in 1983.

While Neil has influenced many other stars, he was shaped by artists from a different era.

He loved Lonnie Donegan's Rock Island Line, The Everly Brothers' Bye Bye Love, The Rolling Stones' Satisfaction, Peter Paul and Mary's Blowin' In The Wind and Ritchie Valens' La Bamba.

During those early years, Neil had no real thought of becoming a singer. He wanted to go to medical school to become a scientist.

However,

he decided he wasn't

I've been doing it a long time now. I can't find another way to make a living for that and instead he dropped out of New York University after his junior year to take a job on Tin Pan Alley. He was paid $50 a week and it took eight years to write his first hit, Solitary Man, in 1966.

Despite his brilliance, he's never found it particularly easy to write a hit. He told an interviewer recently: "You would think that after all these years of writing I would have learnt to do it quickly and gracefully and easily, but it doesn't seem to work out that way."

"Every song is different, so it doesn't help me very much to have had years of experience. It's hard work, and it's not getting any easier."

"But all right, nobody told me it was gonna be easy. And so what? I'm a ditch-digger when I'm writing songs. My back hurts? Who cares? I gotta get that ditch dug deep and strong and it's gotta serve its purpose. There are no short cuts. There are only long cuts. That's what it is. But I've been doing it a long time now. I can't find another way to make a living."

The Vryll Society from Liverpool

Vryll have licence to thrill in psychedelic triple bill

Gig of the week is a rare foray into the West Midlands for Liverpool's fast rising psychedelic rockers The Vryll Society.

The band who shared bills with Blossoms, The Coral and The Kooks recently released a single, Shadow Of A Wave, and the swaggering indie pop quintet have picked up a big following on Merseyside. They will be headlining a formidable triple bill at Wolverhampton's Newhampton Arts Centre next Thursday (October 19) warming up for the Ritual Union festival on Oxford's Cowley Road the following Saturday.

Also at this feast of psychedelia near Molineux will be Sweden's Josefina Ohrn + The Liberation and Sheffield heavy psych outfit Baba Naga.

Little Mix will be giving a shout out to their exes at the Genting Arena tomorrow (Friday) before returning in November. That night rock fans may prefer Birmingham's Broken Witt Rebels at the Slade Rooms in Wolverhampton or 68 Guns outfit The Alarm at Birmingham O2 Academy. Young Pilgrims bring their brassy grooves to Wolverhampton's Arena Theatre on Saturday but it will be Brass In Pocket at the Symphony Hall on Sunday when Chrissie Hynde brings The Pretenders. Or end the weekend at Bilston for some Hocus Pocus with Dutch rockers Focus at the Robin 2.

Major gigs at the Symphony Hall include soul singer Michael Kiwanuka (Monday), Soft Cell's Marc Almond (Tuesday) and folk/rockers The Waterboys (next Thursday).

Bedlam looks at healing through arts

The healing power of art comes under the spotlight in Bedlam, Birmingham's third arts and mental health festival, which starts on Tuesday.

Shaped by people who have experienced mental ill health, the festival celebrates arts and wellbeing and is being held at venues across the city, chiefly Birmingham Repertory Theatre and the Mac in Cannon Hill Park.

The three-week festival features performance poet, Lenn Sissay, pictured, performing his one-man play Something Dark (October 24, Mac); poetry and dance event Kahaani (Oct 27, Mac); Birmingham actress Olivia Winteringham looks at love and grief and how the state of our minds can affect how we remember in Delightful (Oct 26-28, Birmingham Rep).

Charming family show The Girl and the Giraffe (Oct 24-26, Mac) uses puppetry to explore wellbeing and friendship from a child's perspective in matinee performances. A Wellbeing Discovery Day (Oct 22, Rep) will offer yoga, meditation, tai chi and a range of mindfulness activities for all ages.

Festival organiser Steve Ball, an associate director at The Rep, said: "Evidence shows that the arts can have a positive impact on wellbeing yet there have been too few opportunities for people affected by mental ill health to engage with the arts. We hope that this festival will change that."

"Our inaugural festival in 2013 attracted 1,650 participants and audience members and increased to 2,408 in 2015. With the addition of new partners and venues the 2017 festival promises to be bigger than ever." Visit www.birminghamrep.co.uk website.

Halloween comes early to the Grand

Get into the Halloween spirit early when mirth and the macabre merge in The Addams Family musical, staged at Wolverhampton Grand Theatre from Tuesday to Saturday (October 17-21).

Rising star of stage Carrie Hope Fletcher, pictured, who is also massively popular on social media, will take on the iconic role of Wednesday Addams with Samantha Womack as her vampish mother Morticia and Les Dennis as ghoulish Uncle Fester.

Dance star Carlos brings Cuba's best

Dance superstar Carlos Acosta will make a guest appearance with his Acosta Danza troupe at Birmingham Hippodrome. The Havana-based company features dancers from Cuba gathered by the former Royal Ballet star to perform works by choreographers from Acosta's homeland, plus leading American and European dance creators. Debut is staged from Wednesday to Saturday (October 18-21). Contact Dance Company have been working with Wolverhampton's Mosaic Disability Theatre on dance duets being performed tomorrow (Friday), matinee and evening performances, in Two Fold at Wolverhampton's Arena Theatre. Lucy Suggate brings physical expression to the electronic music of James Holden in Pilgrim at the Hippodrome's Patrick Centre venue on October 20.

Offering a warm welcome

Managers Paul and Carol always ensure a warm welcome to customers both old and new at Blackheath's Shoulder of Mutton pub.

For all the sports fans they boast three large TV screens featuring all sports on Sky, BT and all BOX OFFICE Events not to mention AT THE RACES.

For those who like 'doing' rather than 'watching', there is the availability of the pool table and dart board.

Loyalty

The pub itself boasts a wide range of ciders, lagers, wines and spirits including four 'Real Ales' which they rotate weekly. Regulars very often enjoy ales such as Bathams, AJ Ales, Oakham, JHB, Stairway To Heaven and MA Pardoes Entire, plus many more!

The pub also run a loyalty scheme which means customers can get 10p back on their card for every pound they spend.

A pub spokesman added: "With a juke box and free WiFi to compliment the regular entertainment every Friday, customers cannot ask for much more from a local pub!"

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

FANTASTIC CARVERY 7 DAYS A WEEK

They also don't forget their mini diners with 'Kids Eat Free' Monday to Saturday between 3pm and 6pm and during school holidays it's All Day Monday to Saturday.

But it doesn't stop there they also have a full main menu consisting of the classic pub favourites such as steaks, mixed grills, burgers and fish and chips, where the fish would not be out of place in any issue of 'Moby Dick'. To finish is there very tempting dessert menu, that's if you have room after the size of meals you get at The Park Lane Tavern.

Then if that's not enough choice for you you can also choose for the breakfast which is served Friday, Saturday and Sunday 08.30am until 11.00am. Their breakfast is a buffet style 'All you can eat' with enough choice to satisfy any diner from eggs 2 ways, bacon, sausage, mushrooms, baked beans, hash browns, black pudding, grilled fresh tomatoes, toast & fried bread. There's even jam for your toast if you still not full after all that.

Half Price Monday

They also host special evenings like their 'Half Price Monday' which has proven to be very popular, and why not, already reasonably priced selected main meals off their main menu (which includes steaks) at half price served between 5pm and 8pm every Monday. Also their psychic evenings where for £15 you get a reading from a medium and a carvery, for those believers amongst you that must be a bargain.

You get a very friendly feeling when you enter The Park Lane Tavern and that's mostly down to the staff. Happy to see you and always keen to help. They have a lot of regular customers and it's been known for a customer's drink to be poured and waiting for them before they reach the bar, you don't see that at many places nowadays.

There are no airs or graces at The Park Lane Tavern, you get delicious food at great prices served by happy staff in a comfortable environment. No wonder this place has people returning time after time.

It serves a carvery option 7 days a week from midday which consists of a choice of 4 meats, turkey, beef, pork and gammon and accompanied by stuffing, Yorkshire puddings and up to 12 vegetables, topped off with what they call their "secret recipe gravy" known also as what mother used to make! All this for just £4.99 for a lunchtime meal or £5.99 evenings and Saturdays and £7.99 for Sunday lunch represents extremely good value by today's standards.

Going behind the scenes of a memorable occasion

It was one of the biggest boxing bouts in recent history – a clash of generations between an upcoming young talent and one of sport's greatest ever champions.

Back in April, Anthony Joshua fought Wladimir Klitschko for the IBF, WBA and IBO heavyweight titles in front of 90,000 fans at Wembley Stadium.

It was the largest-ever attendance for a boxing bout on British soil and the most spectators for a heavyweight fight anywhere in the world since The Long Count Fight between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey in Chicago in 1927.

For once, the much-hyped event wasn't an anti-climax. After a close and cautious first four rounds, 'AJ' came out and barraged 'Dr Steelhammer' to the canvas in the fifth.

However, the 41-year-old Ukrainian rose up and dominated his younger opponent for the remainder of the round, before battering him and scoring his own knockdown in round six.

The next few rounds were again cautious, both men wary of each other, until a reinvigorated Joshua attacked his opponent in round 11, sending him to the canvas.

Klitschko again rose up, but Joshua knocked him down for a second time in the round, before the referee stopped the fight.

This documentary follows Joshua in the final hours leading up to the historic fight.

It also provides an intimate insight into the young champion at home the night before and in his dressing room as the clock ticked down to the opening bell.

The programme also features a look at the career of the Watford fighter, who turned 28 on Sunday.

As an amateur, Joshua represented Britain at the 2012 Olympics, winning a gold medal in the super-heavyweight division.

He is also the second boxer, after Joe Frazier, to win a world heavyweight title whilst still reigning as Olympic champion at the top weight.

As well as profiling Joshua, The Fight Of My Life also contains the boxer's own fascinating analysis on what was certainly the biggest test of his career so far and seen by many as a boxing classic.

But before his success in the ring he had his fair share of problems.

In 2009, Joshua was put on remand in Reading Prison for what he describes as "fighting and other crazy stuff". He was made to wear an electronic tag on his ankle when released.

Then in March 2011, Joshua was pulled over by the police for speeding in Colindale, North London.

He was found with 8ozs of herbal cannabis hidden in a sports bag in his Mercedes and charged with possession with intent to supply a class B drug, an offence that carries a maximum 14-year sentence.

Joshua was suspended from GB boxing squad and was sentenced to a 12-month community order and 100 hours' unpaid work after pleading guilty at crown court.

As well as profiling Joshua, The Fight Of My Life also contains the boxer's own fascinating analysis on what was certainly the biggest test of his career so far and seen by many as a boxing classic.

FRIDAY

Travel Man: 48 Hours in Rome

Channel 4, 8.30pm

Richard Ayoade is back for a new series of trips – and he begins by joining Matt Lucas for a Roman holiday. With just 48 hours to experience the Eternal City, they begin by dropping their bags off at their ultra-hip hotel, and then head to Rome's oldest hat shop in search of headgear that will protect them from the blazing Italian sun. Then, they set about touring the city in vintage Fiat 500 cars, finishing on top of Gianicolo Hill in time for the cannon being fired as part of a daily ritual that has been taking place since the 1850s. On the second day they stay into the same territory as ITV2's Bromans as, following a guided tour of the Colosseum, they head to gladiator school to practise their sword skills.

QI

BBC2, 10pm

The comedy quiz show returns, as Sandi Toksvig poses more perplexing questions to a selection of celebrity guests. As ever, the panelists will not necessarily be expected to deliver the correct answers, and Sandi will be handing out points to those who provide the 'most interesting' guesses. Challengers joining Alan Davies this week are Bill Bailey, Phill Jupitus and Claudia Winkleman.

compared it to the house in Amityville Horror. George teams the couple up with creative architect Laura Clark, who attempts to turn this terrifying building into a warm and welcoming, modern home, whilst retaining some of its original character.

THURSDAY

Gordon Ramsay on Cocaine

ITV, 9pm

Britain is the biggest user of cocaine in Europe – and it's rife in the restaurant trade. Gordon Ramsay has seen the drug wreck the careers of colleagues, including a protege who lost his life to an overdose in 2003. He now presents this two-part documentary exposing the truth about the drug. He travels to South and Central America to witness the illegal process by which cocaine is made, joins British police trying to catch drivers under the influence and sees the arrest of couriers on their way to a major deal.

Gordon Ramsay on Cocaine, Thursday, ITV, 9pm

It's Spain – with a capital Mmm

RAUCOUS, sometimes riotous, a tour of Madrid's tapas bars is as worthwhile as seeing powerhouse art gallery Museo del Prado and the colonnaded Plaza Mayor.

The loud-mouthed, boisterous city may not lay claim to its own dish, but you'll find restaurants, bars and delis serving some of the best regional Spanish food. Try cecina (cured beef) from Leon, mojama (salt-cured tuna) from Cadiz and sherry from Jerez.

According to a survey by Booking.com, 75 per cent of global travellers are likely to choose a location renowned for its great food and drink for their next destination. More than a third say food is what they remember most vividly about a place. For a true taste of Madrid, these are the foodie experiences you must sample.

Get your fill of history. Where: Botin

Dining in this rickety four-floor warren of a restaurant is sampling a slice of history. Founded in 1725, it's been named the world's oldest restaurant by The Guinness Book of Records. A dapper waiter slices Iberico ham in the reception, while the original wood-burning oven slow roasts about 50 piglets a day. The tender pork dish is a classic and features on a recommended three-course house menu.

Snap up some foodie bargains. Where: San Miguel and Anton Martin markets Revamped and renovated, the covered San Miguel market, just off Plaza Mayor, is filled with deli delights. Fried calamari rings in paper cones, fresh spider crabs on ice and fried churros are all beautifully displayed. Many people come here simply to snap photos and gaze up at the curling wrought iron roof. Prices reflect the venue's popularity.

Lunch like a true local. Where: Prada a Tope

Specialising in preserved figs, peppers and meats from the Bierzo region in northwest Spain, this well-

Hip to be square – Plaza Mayor in Madrid, Spain

Eating out – inside the Botin restaurant priced, wood-panelled restaurant is a favourite with Madrilenos – especially for (late) lunch. Although not always Instagram-worthy, the generous, belly-stretching dishes are superb – particularly the salt-crusted, thin-sliced buttery steak with zoupieros figs and fries

Book a guided tapas crawl. Where: around the city centre

An unspoken code governs the etiquette of tapas dining in Madrid, which can be intimidating for the uninitiated. Menus (if any) will generally be Spanish chalk-scrawls on blackboards, and getting an order in requires deft elbow manoeuvres to secure a space at the bar.

Let someone else do all the hard work by booking a food tour. Yorkshire lass Jo Wivell moved to Spain many years ago to follow her passion for flamenco, and now runs the excellent Insider's Madrid (insidersmadrid.com).

Book a bespoke tour with Jo and she'll show you all the best spots, including La Venencia, where grumpy staff serve sherry in a magical space stacked with wooden casks, and Emma Cocina (opposite the San Miguel market), a rare place to find salads in the city.

A three-hour tour with all you can eat and drink in four stops costs from £144 per person (minimum two people). Discounts apply for bigger groups. Jo might even treat you to an impromptu dance performance!

Where to stay – Only YOU Atocha.

Charming and breezily stylish, this young, energetic hotel sums up the spirit of Madrid. The 205 rooms are compact but filled with everything the millennial traveller might need. The real star is the SEP7IMA rooftop bar.

Quick viewings urged for this end terrace property

In a great location, and expected to sell fast, this three-bedrooomed end of terraced property in Harvest Road, Smethwick, is expected to prove popular with first time buyers and investors alike.

It is for sale through loveyourpostcode.com at £134,950.

It has a side entrance hallway which leads into the well-proportioned dining room with double doors to the garden.

SMETHWICK
£134,950

The generous-sized lounge has a bay window.

There are two good sized double rooms both with built-in wardrobes and the third room large enough to accommodate a single bed. The family bathroom completes this floor with shower over the bath.

Outside, there is off road parking for up to two vehicles and a side gate to the garden.

The garden has a paved area with raised beds and a lawn with a shed and greenhouse.

The local area is brilliant for families and working professionals. This is also a great investment, with local amenities in close proximity to local infant, primary and secondary schools.

NOTICE TO READERS
Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:

1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with its Mother.
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree. Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

Expansion for family-run Oak Garage, Merry Hill

Commercial feature

Expansion is always a reassuring sign that a business must be doing well. Customer demand is based on happy customers. That's exactly what you'll find at Oak Garage in Sterling Park, Merry Hill. You may have heard their ads on Black Country Radio, but if you make a visit down to their growing base in Sterling Park, you'll be able to see for yourself what's behind this growth.

It was back in 2006 that two family run businesses, Oak Garage and Imperial Cars merged together. Combining many years' experience that dated back to 1971, they are now one of the longest running family run used car sales businesses in the Midlands.

This expansion for Oak Garage means they have doubled in size, taking up two more units at the Sterling Park site, now having four of the eight units there.

It means they have around 80 cars ready for viewing at any one time, with half of their vehicles undercover and protected while prospective customers come along to see them.

Oak Garage has doubled in size

Quality Cars with the RAC Backing

The team at Oak Garage like to keep the personal touch when it comes to motor sales. For a long time now, they have specialised in one owner only cars, with a full-service history so that customers can buy with confidence. But now, you can add to that, the peace of mind that they are a RAC Approved Dealership.

All RAC Approved Dealerships sign up to giving their vehicles the 82-point RAC Approved Preparation Standard before delivery; along with a minimum of three months' RAC Warranty cover, twelve months complimentary RAC Roadside breakdown cover and enrolment to RAC Accident Management Service – that supports a motorist in the event of an accident.

The range of services they offer include setting-up finance for you. They have a choice of finance companies to approach, so you can select the deal that's just right for you. They also offer part exchange and can source cars for you too.

Expansion for Oak Garage comes because of their quality, integrity and desire to deliver customer service that goes above and beyond what's expected of others. So many happy customers can't be wrong – and the RAC agree.

Crossland X fills more practical needs

By Ian Donaldson

Vauxhall is keen to tell you what its new Crossland X is not – and it's not a mildly macho four-wheel driver for people with adventurous tastes.

No, that task is filled in the range by the nearly-as-new Mokka X, a mere finger's length longer, but aimed at different buyers.

The Crossland X is as more down to earth machine (literally; it lacks the Mokka's rock defying ground clearance and 4WD availability) and is aimed at filling the more practical needs of its buyers.

And these, Vauxhall thinks, will be either younger couples who need the Crossland's space for people and their bits and bobs or older types who relish the car's raised seating and the way it makes for easier entry and exit as the joints begin to creak a little.

Family-friendly

Either group will be taking on a car that looks crisply neat outside and in and starts at a family-friendly £16,555 – although Vauxhall is following the industry trend and offers only a single colour (blue) that doesn't mean another £550 for metallic paint.

The range tops out at £21,380, heading a line up that borrows heavily from the Peugeot group for the bits you can't see, from body platform to engines and gearboxes.

That deal was struck years before the recent takeover of Vauxhall by the Peugeot empire and there's another joint venture due later this year with the larger Grandland X, which shares bits with the French firm's 3008.

It's no surprise that Vauxhall is keen to ramp up its offerings in the SUV part of the market, growing at a phenomenal pace as buyers shun the more traditional small hatchback. They'll enjoy the sense of space in the Crossland X, with loads of headroom front and back and a rear seat (which for £300 can optionally slide forward to favour boot room) that is adult-friendly too. That means a useful increase in the already generous boot capacity, from 410 litres to 520 litres, or a van-like 1,255 litres with the rear seat folded flat.

Your car can become a wi-fi hotspot

The entry-level engine is the 1.2-litre petrol with 81bhp (54.3mpg combined; 116g/km CO<sub>2</sub>). Elsewhere in the range, the 1.2 Turbo with petrol direct injection is available in three variants. The ECOTEC engine is equipped with the five-speed manual transmission (58.9mpg combined; 111-109 g/km CO<sub>2</sub>) and delivers 108bhp, while the 1.2-litre combined with the six-speed automatic gearbox manages 57.3mpg combined and 123g/km CO<sub>2</sub>.

The top-of-the-line petrol engine is the 1.2 Turbo with 128bhp (55.4mpg combined; 116g/km CO<sub>2</sub>) and six-speed manual transmission.

There's loads of headroom front and back and a rear seat that is adult-friendly

This takes the Vauxhall Crossland X from zero to 62mph in 9.1 seconds and to a maximum speed of 128mph.

The line-up also includes two turbocharged diesel engines, including the 1.6 with 98bhp. The diesel ECOTEC variant, with Start/Stop, emits 93g/km CO<sub>2</sub> and achieves up to 78.5mpg combined. The most powerful diesel is the 1.6 with 118bhp (70.6mpg combined; 105g/km CO<sub>2</sub>) and a top speed of 116mph.

Standard kit across the range includes climate control, alloy wheels, cruise control and LED daytime running lights. Depending on grade or options, your Crossland X can park itself without the driver touching the steering wheel (which can be heated) and will beat winter frosts with a heated windscreen.

Opt for Vauxhall's OnStar system and your car becomes a wi-fi hotspot, with the chance to hook up seven mobile devices. So the kids will stay silently glued to their iPads in the back.

The way the car feels on the road depends greatly on what's under the bonnet. They all share a ride that prefers smoother roads and turns a bit sharp on bad ones and the likely most popular, the 110 horsepower petrol lacks sparkle when provoked, although 45mpg on the test route was some compensation.

The more powerful 128bhp petrol model was very much livelier (and its six-speed gearbox sweeter) and returned an identical 45mpg. It felt a transformed vehicle.

Much more economical (58mpg on test) was the more powerful of the diesel Crosslands, which felt as swift as the better petrol and makes sense for the business user (a minority of buyers here) who won't mind the higher purchase price.

Daley launches hunt for the next big thing

FORMER Villa, Wolves and England winger Tony Daley is hoping to help uncover the next generation of future stars - after launching his own football coaching programme.

Daley, who also played for Walsall, has joined forces with his lifelong friend Dave Barnett - who was released by Wolves as a youngster and played for Blues and Barnet among others - to set up Pro Level Performance (PLP), a 30-week programme (one day a week for two hours). Based in Aston, it will focus on the mental side of the game as much as the physical. Capped seven times by England, Dale left Wolves this summer after a decade at the club working on fitness and sport science. He said: "We have a wealth of experience to nurture the youth of today - this is a bespoke programme for aspiring young players. At my school there were five or six lads who were better footballers than me but the mental side is just as important, hence our motto 'skill is not enough'."

Rugby coach tackling the scientists head on

IN Tom Brown's School Days, the protagonist observed: "It's very odd how almost all English boys love danger; you can get ten to join a game, or climb a tree, or swim a stream, when there's a chance of breaking their limbs or getting drowned."

It is fair to say Tom's adventures with Scud, George and Flashman would have been very different had their teachers heeded the latest advice from experts at Newcastle University.

Writing for the British Medical Journal, Prof Allyson Pollock and Graham Kirkwood have called for scrums and tackles to be banned from school playing fields, arguing that most injuries in youth rugby are caused by collisions during the game.

Calling for the Government to step in, Professors Pollock and Kirkwood say ministers should "put the interests of the child before those of corporate professional rugby unions".

But Dominic Bradburn, director of sport at Oswestry School, is unconvinced.

Dangers

"You can't take tackling out of the game, it would ruin it," says Mr Bradburn, who has played the sport for Shrewsbury RFC.

Phil Jefferies, who coaches youngsters at Bridgnorth Rugby Club, says that taking tackling out of the junior game could actually make it more dangerous when children get older. "I think there's always merit in re-looking at sport and understanding the dangers involved," he says.

"My personal view is that what we need to do is to teach kids the correct techniques to scrummage and tackle, and give them the experience of this at a slower rate when they are small."

"If you take the tackling and scrummaging out of the game at school level, by the time they reach the age of 18 they will have no experience of it, and I think you will get a lot more injuries than you do now."

Mr Jefferies, who is 42, first started playing the game when he was eight years old. He says that in 34 years he has suffered from concussion twice, despite

Wheels in Motion on new league deal

THE region's non-league football scene has received a significant boost thanks to a sponsorship deal from a vehicle management company.

The Midland Football League, which boasts 76 clubs across four divisions, will be branded the Total Motion Midland Football League thanks to an initial five-figure sum. The leasing company hopes to invest up to £250,000 across a five-year partnership, launched at the Banks's Stadium.

The idea, according to managing director and co-founder Simon Hill, is for clubs to profit and earn a portion of the five-figure sum stumped up yearly by Total Motion.

The incentives plan mean clubs can earn bonuses the more they utilise Total Motion's services by leasing vehicles. The company will offer £25 per vehicle rented, a figure the league will match. There is also a £1,000 end-of-season prize on offer for the club that comes out on top of a Total Motion 'league table' created by Total Motion, while a special £5,000 bonus is available for clubs that lease 250 vehicles in one financial year.

playing the position of flanker where his head is particularly vulnerable.

"I would imagine the risk of leg breaks in football is far greater," he says, although he does add that head injuries can be much more serious.

He points out that much has changed in the way rugby is taught to youngsters in recent years.

"You now have age range rugby, where different rules are gradually brought in for different age groups," he says. "That's only come in over the last four years."

Prof Pollock, a public health doctor who has been researching rugby injuries for more than 10 years, and Prof Kirkwood, a former NHS nurse, say that removing collisions from school rugby would "reduce and mitigate the risk of injury" in pupils.

They warn that a history of concussion could "lower a person's life chances" across a number of measures including educational achievement and life expectancy. They also say that head injuries could increase the risk of dementia.

Mr Bradburn agrees more could be done to make junior rugby safer, but says banning tackles is not the way to go about it.

He says a better idea would be to classify youngsters by their weight rather than age, as is done in New Zealand. At the moment we have the situation of under-12s rugby, where you might have a boy who has gone through puberty, and one who hasn't," he says. "You get a boy weighing 60kg going up against one who is 20kg. At that stage it is more about maturation and puberty than it is simply about age," he adds. Citing previous research into sports injuries in youngsters, Profs Pollock and Kirkwood say that rugby, along with ice hockey and American football, have the highest concussion rates. They say rule changes can make a difference, highlighting the Canadian ban on deliberate contact in ice hockey for under-13s.

But Mr Bradburn, who has been teaching rugby for 14 years, says the game is no different from any other contact sport. He says the important thing is to ensure that it is taught properly, and that staff are trained in dealing with any knocks that might be picked up.

He is not the only one who is sceptical. In 2016, the nation's most senior medics rejected a call for a ban on tackling in youth rugby.

Prof Tara Spires-Jones, of the University of Edinburgh, says while people should be careful playing sports where there is a risk of head injury, the scientific evidence isn't strong enough to justify drastic rule changes.

Benefits

"The data on specifically whether playing rugby or other contact sports in school increases your risk of dementia are not as robust yet due to a lack of large prospective studies," she says.

There are also many who argue that the health benefits of getting youngsters involved with sport outweigh any risks from concussion.

Pollock and Kirkwood say that under United Nations conventions, governments have a duty to protect children from risks of injury. But brain injury expert Dr Alan Carson believes experts should think very hard before bringing in rules which could mean fewer children want to take part in sport.

"The health crisis facing Britain's children is not concussion, but obesity and lack of exercise," he says.

Mr Jefferies says that taking tackling out of the junior game would deny youngsters the opportunity to get some much-needed exercise.

"We have got 300 kids in our junior teams, and when you have boys that age there is a lot of testosterone," he says.

"At the age of 11 and 12, they need to run around and be active. From the age of nine, when they are told they can tackle, all they want to do is tackle. It just smacks of the nanny state."

Spill puts dampener on Wigley race hopes

HEDNESFORD'S Kurt Wigley returned to the renowned fast track of Assen, in the Netherlands, for the first time in six years as the British Super-bikes series moved overseas.

Taking part in the British Supersport championships, the 21-year-old admitted it took a while to get to grips with the track, hitting a damp patch and going over the handlebars during qualifying, damaging the bike as well as injuring a thumb.

The team had about three hours to rebuild the bike for the first race and had the Sorrymate.com Yamaha on the start line just in time.

Starting 10th on the grid, Wigley was up to sixth by the end of the first lap but still struggling with his injury. He suffered another crash coming out of the hairpin and high-sided.

"The rules are if you crash you're out of the race," he said. "It meant I started the next race in 15th but it was a much better race and I managed to catch the top 10, finishing in ninth."

Stourbridge race away from Blaydon

Blaydon RFC 11 Stourbridge RFC 40
STOURBRIDGE ended a hoodoo against a bogey side they last played in March 2012 during a relegation season.

This was also a game that Stour – featuring Geordie made good Neil Mitchell – needed to win to assert their promotion hope.

The hosts had won only a single game – at home against Otley – and were not at the races here despite taking the lead with a try of their own on the half hour mark through Nathan Bailey.

Shortly before half-time Blaydon found themselves a man down after persistent offside calls and Stour took a 14-8 lead with the award of a penalty try.

Blaydon started the second half well with a three-point penalty after 51 minutes by replacement fly half Ryan Foreman or for Dan Rundle to chalk up another valuable try six minutes later. Afeafe Haisila added the extras.

Blaydon rallied for a spell but, on 71, Nick David added a bonus point try, the extras added. The floodgates opened and replacement hooker Sam Wilkes added his name to the scoresheet and Haisila's last-minute self-converted try put the icing on the cake.

Problem encounter as Eggington loses out in title defence

SAM Egginton was beaten in the first defence of his European title on Saturday night.

The Stourbridge fighter, only the week before named the Boxing Writers' Club's Young Boxer of the Year, was outpointed by Mohamed Mimoune for the welter strap on a split decision at the Manchester Arena.

The 23-year-old was the victor with one judge by four rounds, 116-112, but the other two went with Mimoune 116-112 and 115-113 respectively.

Egginton noticeably struggled to make the weight, having to strip completely naked at the weigh-in, with a towel covering his modesty, to tip the scales at 10st 7lb.

That looked to have played its part in a lethargic performance, with his opponent, nicknamed 'the Problem,' utilising his awkward southpaw skills to great effect. The Frenchman was the mandatory challenger and vacated his European Union belt for the opportunity.

A rebuilding process at a new weight now awaits Egginton. He hopes his power will travel up to super welter.

Vipers touch down at rugby club

Black Country Vipers American Football team

STOURBRIDGE Rugby Club is to host another oval ball sport as the Black Country Vipers American Football team has signed up to play at Stourton Park.

Talks have been ongoing for several months, with both sides expressing excitement at the prospect of gridiron being played at the rugby club.

Rugby club chairman Robin Edwards said: "There's a synergy between our two sports that will provide excellent opportunities for young players from both clubs. With the American Football season running from April to September, it is a perfect fit with our rugby season."

Ian Jewkes, CEO and general manager of Black Country Vipers, said: "The move provides us with excellent playing and training facilities, as well as the opportunity for players from both clubs to try out a different sport."

Taster sessions for 13-18-year-olds take place on October 15, November 19 and December 10 from 2-4pm. For more information visit www.blackcountryvipers.com

Race meeting could be last for Heathens

CRADLEY race what could be their last ever league meeting when they face Eastbourne at Wolverhampton next Monday (7.30).

Club bosses have confirmed they cannot guarantee the team will be at the tapes for 2018 until they know how many dates Wolves need.

That appears to rule out any home meetings at Birmingham next season with crowds significantly lower for Heathens meetings there.

The Heathens' season will round off at Monmore the following week, October 23 with the famous F.A.S.T Golden Hammer individual, with a line-up that Patchett believes is one of the strongest to date.

"We want to end the season on a high over the next two Mondays at Wolverhampton, starting with Eastbourne," said co-promoter Gary Patchett.

"We desperately tried to squeeze this fixture into our schedule prior to the cut-off date but there was no space available and denied us a very late charge at the play-offs.

"But you have to play with the hand you're dealt with and just because there's nothing riding on it as such, it's still a very important meeting.

"There's no hiding from the fact that this has been an unusually disappointing year for the Heathens and it's important to go out on some sort of a high.

"And while we sincerely hope it's not the case, who knows, it could be the last league meeting for Cradley."

Reece seals place in championships

BLACK Country Triathletes did themselves proud at the Oulton Park Autumn Duathlon in Cheshire.

The morning Sprint involved a 5km run, 25km ride and a 5km run and was a qualifier for the European Duathlon Championships in October 2018 in Ibiza. Reece Ashfield was first home in 1:04:28, in an automatic qualifying third place in the 17-18 age group.

In the afternoon's Standard Distance Race, the English National Championship race for this distance, a 10km run, 40km bike and 5km run, Rob Kennard brought home the bronze medal, third in the 50-54 age group in 1:53:15.
